16-year-old boy on trial for manslaughter after death of 40-year-old Polish man

Teen denies killing man with one punch

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews

A TEENAGER killed a Polish man with a single "Superman" punch to the head in Harlow after mocking his English, a court heard.

Arkadiusz Jozwik, 40, suffered skull fractures and fatal brain injuries after being hit from behind in The Stow in August last year.

Mr Jozwik was drunk when he encountered a group of Harlow teenagers on the night he was killed, a jury at Chelmsford Crown court was told.

Jacob Lusiecki told the court he was with the 40-year-old Pole at The Stow shopping hatch in Harlow on August 27 last year and they were swigging from two bottles of vodka.

Brain injuries

A 16-year-old boy is standing trial for manslaughter this week after Mr Jozwik suffered skull fractures and fatal brain injuries from an attack and died on August 29.

The teenager, who is from Harlow and cannot be named for legal reasons, denies the charge.

On Tuesday, July 25, Mr Lusiecki told the court he was with Mr Jozwik and their colleague Radek Koscelski, eating pizza outside a takeaway.

He said the teenagers were doing wheelies on their bikes and quizzed the Poles over a swear word.

Mr Lusiecki said they approached the youths, but denied being aggressive.

Tests found Mr Jozwik was around twice the drink-drive limit when he was struck on the back of the head after he and Mr Koscelski were pushed back by the boys.

Mr Lusiecki claimed he had "no idea" what the groups were rowing over when his friends went over to the teenagers.

Jurors were played a police interview with a 16-year-old boy witness, who can also not be named for legal reasons, and named eight friends who were in the shopping area.

The boy said he saw Mr Jozwik and Mr Koscelski drunk and pushing two youths and loudly telling them, "fight me, fight me".

"I think the red one (Mr Koscelski) tried pushing the other one away."

The witness said the defendant then performed a jumping punch on the right side of Mr Jozwik's head.

This had previously been described as a Superman punch, which prosecution lawyer Rosina Cottage called "immature bravado".

The witness added: "Everyone was saying he was dead, he was bleeding from his ears."

Another 16-year-old boy said Mr Koscelski, who the court heard was 6ft 2in tall, and Mr Jozwik made racist remarks against members of the group

Flowers left at the scene of the incident moments before the attack.

He said the two Polish men became aggressive after a teen rode his bike on his rear wheel near where they were eating pizza and another asked them what a Polish swear word meant.

"My mate asked what curva meant, because they were sitting there saying that," the witness said.

"I think he tried a wheelie or something and got a bit too close. "The one in the red top (Mr Koscelski) walked over to the front bench and started on my friend - he fell on him, he was so drunk he fell on him.

"He got up and his friend come over."

The witness said the Polish duo repeatedly asked "anyone who was in front of them", for a fight and added: "We didn't have a fight, we was laughing, saying why - we obviously didn't have a fight. I was shocked, I didn't know what was happening to be honest.

I didn't know what to do, I was just standing there looking and listening."

He said one of the teenagers was racially abused and pushed one of the Polish men back before the defendant suddenly punched Mr Jozwik from behind.

"None of us intended for that to happen, it was completely an accident," said the witness.

The 5ft 1" defendant was described as small but someone with serious character.

The jury was shown a six-minute CCTV video of the youths cycling and the Polish men drinking in the shopping area after arriving in the afternoon.

Police constable Mark Rickwood told the court the defendant was arrested after handing himself over at Harlow Police Station at 1.31pm the next day.

Jurors heard the youth had no visible injuries on his hands from the punch.

The trial continues.

Man 'stable' in hospital after car park stabbing

Area surrounding Post Office Walk cordoned off for investigation

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN is in a 'stable' condition in hospital after being stabbed in the back in a group fight.

Post Office Walk, Harlow, was cordoned off by Essex Police after the incident around 2.20am on Sunday (July 23).

As the Star went to press the victim, aged in his 20s, remained in hospital with a stab wound to the back.

Nobody has been arrested in connection with the incident.

The cordoned-off area sealed off Post Office Walk car park in the centre of the town. This cordon was lifted on Monday.

Stabbed

A spokesman from Essex Police said: "Police were called to reports that a man was stabbed in Post Office Road, Harlow, at around 2.20am on Sunday, following a fight involving a group of people."

Anyone with information is asked to contact Harlow Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Post Office Walk is near to Twenty One Bar and Harlow Terminus Street car park.

The nightclub, also known as Bar 21, was recently in the news after another stabbing happened outside.

That attack followed a stabbing in April in nearby East Gate, an incident which resulted in another man being taken to hospital.

Police cordoned off a wide area surrounding Post Office Walk and the Post Office Walk car park following the stabbing

MP calls for push to 'root out' late-night knife crime in town

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has reacted to a stabbing that left a man in a life threatening condition.

Harlow road Post Office Walk, where the incident happened around 2.20am on Sunday has now been reopened.

The victim, a man in his 20s, was stabbed in the back after a group fight and was taken to hospital.

Nobody has been arrested. Speaking at Harlow Carnival, later on Sunday, Mr Halfon said: "It is a tragedy."

"My sincere sympathies to the victim and their family. We really need to root out this kind of crime in Harlow."

"I will do all I can working with the police to stop these things from happening."

"I think Harlow is a wonderful and safe place."

"But we have got to look at all the things that have happened. I talk to the police regularly and that will continue."

He added: "This is a minority and not that majority."

This latest incident follows another stabbing near nightclub Twenty One Bar.

Members of Harlow Council recently told the Harlow Star that they still considered the town centre to be a safe place at night.

A staff member from Harlow

Market, a European supermarket which backs onto the crime scene, was unsure what happened.

He said: "The police have now gone and they did not tell us anything."

A staff member from Tasty Grill, a nearby kebab shop, declined to comment.

MP slams 'madcap' road plan in Parliament

TOWN MP Robert Halfon slammed Harlow Council's plan to close London Road to traffic as a "madcap idea" in a Parliament speech.

The Harlow MP responded to heavy social media pressure and raised the issue in the House of Commons on Friday.

London Road (locally known as Old London Road) links Church Langley with First Avenue and Mark Hall but from 2019 stands to be used only by pedestrians and public transport.

The council's planning committee voted, by four votes to two, to install a bus gate and new signs in a heated meeting on July 5, despite 413 representations from the public.

Robert Halfon said: "The closure will cause huge amounts of unnecessary inconvenience."

"It seems a madcap idea. "There is absolutely no need to close this road and I thank all the residents who have raised objections."

Those in favour argue the modifications will allow better pedestrian and traffic movement with Newhall Phase 2, Harlow Enterprise Zone and M11 junction 7a all being built.

Councillor Bob Davis said: "Once it comes together I can imagine there are going to be serious traffic problems and the danger to children."

A Facebook group called #Don'tCloseOLR now has 2,191 members and hundreds have signed a petition in opposition.

Mr Halfon said: "Following my parliamentary motion and raising my objection with the Leader of the House of Commons, I have also written to Essex County Council, Harlow Council and the Transport Minister to see if this decision can be overturned."

Robbers threaten shop staff

THREE men stole mobile phones and a five-figure sum of cash after threatening shop staff.

The men, wearing balaclavas, went into EE, in Edinburgh Way, Harlow, at about 4pm on Tuesday afternoon (July 25) and ordered workers to the shop's rear.

They then took phones, money and electrical appliances before driving away in a Volkswagen Golf. No one was injured.

Essex Police are appealing for information after the robbery.

One suspect is described as being white, about 6ft 2 ins with facial hair and wore a black and white striped hoodie.

The other suspects have been described as being black men, aged in their 20s and about 5ft 5ins tall.

They both wore black hoodies while all three wore gloves.

Anyone with information is asked to call Harlow Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Delays on M11 after blowout

MOTORISTS faced delays on the M11 southbound from junction at 8 Bishop's Stortford to junction 7 for Harlow.

Slight disruption was caused after a vehicle's part-worn tyres blew out on Saturday (July 22).

Essex Police sergeant Colin Shead posted pictures of the tyres on Twitter which were taken by PC Michelle Lockyer.

He wrote that a female driver has been reported to court as she already had 14 points on her licence.

The car passed its MOT in May but the driver purchased part-worn tyres as a replacement.

Drivers using the section faced delays of no more than five minutes.

Chance to have your say on council's master plan

Consultation on future planning guidelines which will shape area

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Council is inviting residents and businesses to have their say on how planning applications are considered.

The consultation is a precursor to the authority's local plan, planning guidelines that will shape the town's development up to 2033 and include policy on housing, infrastructure, the environment, services and support.

A replacement for Princess Alexandra Hospital could be on the cards while Harlow Council must fulfil a requirement to build 9,200 homes.

Councillor Danny Purton said: "This consultation is an important part of the local development plan.

Aspirations

"If we want to continue improving Harlow, providing much-needed housing and employment and creating new opportunities for local people and businesses, then we need a local development plan which supports Harlow's development, aspirations and growth for the future."

As neighbouring councils have already submitted a local plan, the announcement is a step forward for the local authority.

Policy is also expected to be shaped around major projects such as Harlow Enterprise Zone and Public Health England's campus in the town.

Mr Purton added: "As we plan

Residents can read the proposals at a number of sites around town, including Harlow Civic Centre. Inset, Councillor Danny Purton Harlow's future, the council will be making sure that Harlow has the right mix of new homes, business spaces, shops, education, health and leisure facilities to meet the needs of residents and businesses.

"We will also provide protection for the green spaces and the environment by making sure that new buildings respect Harlow's new town heritage and any traffic implications are minimised.

"The development management policies support all these things by providing guidance on how planning applications will be assessed."

Consultation on the proposed policies runs until 5pm on Thursday, September 7.

The complete local plan will be published for further consultation and submitted to the secretary of state for examination in 2018.

Consultation over plan for new garden town

PROPOSALS to build a new garden town called Gilston Park, also colloquially known as Harlow North, will be put to consultation by East Hertfordshire District Council (EHDC).

The consultation, which started on Monday (July 24), will run until September 1.

Residents are being asked to give their views on plans for a new town being proposed for Gilston.

The town, which is part of the East Hertfordshire District Plan, would include 10,000 homes, provision for schools, health care, parks, and transport links.

The consultation, which is taking place after the publication of the concept framework document, gives the public the chance to look at the first detailed plans for the settlement.

To view the documents and to give feedback visit www.eastherts.gov.uk/gilstonconsultation

Developers will also be holding a drop-in session on August 5, from 10am until 3pm, at Manor of Groves Hotel in Sawbridgeworth, CM21 0JU for people to see plans and to give their opinions in person.

Obese horses in considerable discomfort removed from fields

THREE obese horses were removed from Harlow fields as concerns grow for the welfare of wild stock.

Officers from the RSPCA, Harlow Council and equine sanctuary Redwings took action because they were concerned five loose animals posed a threat to themselves and the public.

In a joint operation last month the agencies caught three from Lutton Common and two from Potter Street Common.

An RSPCA spokesman said: "The three at Lutton were examined by Redwings' head vet.

"All three were found to be obese, two were in considerable discomfort with laminitis and required pain relief.

"All three were removed on welfare grounds and are now in Redwings' care while an investigation is carried out.

"The two at Potters Street Common were caught and also checked by the vet.

"During the examination an owner came forward and was given advice regarding weight management and hoof care."

This latest episode follows town MP Robert Halfon demanding action on horse tethering, while a petition to 'stop inhumane treatment of equestrian animals on common land' now has 6,105 signatures.

The issue came to a head earlier this year when shocking images of a dead horse on land near Pinnacles, Harlow, were shared hundreds of times on social media. This prompted the RSPCA and Harlow Council to respond.

Nic de Brauwere, head of welfare and behaviour at Redwings, said: "The challenge faced on the commons in Harlow is two-fold.

"Firstly, the lack of management of the land to determine who has a right to graze there. Secondly, the lack of formal identification and traceability of some of the animals and their owners.

"Welfare charities have worked with responsible owners to ensure horses are correctly identified."

Man faces court over assault charges

A MAN has been charged after allegedly assaulting two people and a dog.

Dean Pitts, 23, from Epping, was due to appear at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court on Monday, charged with four assaults, causing fear or provocation of violence, threats to commit criminal damage, causing unnecessary suffering to a protected animal and bike theft.

Police

Essex Police were called to an incident on High Road, Thornwood, in the early hours of Thursday, July 20.

A woman, aged 29, and a man, aged 38, were allegedly assaulted. It is also claimed that three people were threatened at the scene and that a dog was beaten. The dog was put down due to the severity of its injuries.

The suspect was also wanted in connection with the theft of two bike and allegedly assaulting their teenage owners in Harlow on Tuesday, July 18.

Pitts was arrested in Churchfield, Harlow, at around 1am on Sunday.

Five out of six originally charged after attack are to be sentenced

Four convicted in club 'twerking' assault case

By Conor Gogarty star@hertsexnews.co.uk

FOUR men have been convicted after a teenager was viciously beaten "for twerking" in Twenty One Bar in Harlow.

Six men were charged with GBH after Lewis Criddle was attacked in Market Square and left with fluid on his brain, having angered a defendant by "twerking" towards him on September 4, 2015.

Luke Martin, 19, of Joyners Field, and Craig Quennell, 22, of Long Banks, were found guilty of GBH with intent when the jury reached a verdict on Friday after a 15-day trial.

Daniel Lockett, 21, of Little Brays, and Jordan Hinton, 20, of The Briars, were found guilty of violent disorder.

Sean Stuart, 32, of Tamar Way, Tottenham, pleaded guilty to GBH on the first day of trial.

All five will be sentenced at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday, September 22.

Luke Quennell, 19, of Long

Banks, was found not guilty of violent disorder and GBH.

All six men had previously pleaded not guilty at Chelmsford Crown Court on April 25, 2016.

On the night of the incident, one of the defendants was ejected from Twenty One Bar in Harlow after getting into an argument with the victim.

The group then waited outside for the victim to leave and attacked him at around 3.15am, knocking him unconscious.

Blackouts

The victim was taken to hospital with facial fractures and fluid around his brain, which has since caused blackouts and memory loss.

DC Leo Fordham, of Harlow CID, said: "This was a vicious attack on a man who innocently bumped into his attackers while dancing during a night out.

"His attackers continued to punch and kick him as he lay unconscious before boasting about their actions on social media. The victim underwent emergency surgery in hospital for his injuries and he has shown great bravery throughout the investigation and trial.

"I would also like to thank all those who were involved in the investigation for their hard work and dedication in helping to secure these convictions."

Mr Criddle's injuries left him unable to work for a period, which cost him £1,200 in wages.

Anwar Nashashibi, prosecuting, said: "The motive was a perceived insult to Luke Martin that happened inside the club, it seems the victim twerked to him. There was blood all around Lewis and blood coming from his nose."

"The bouncer asked him to leave the club. He wanted revenge and the defendants helped him to get it. They said they wanted to f***ing kill him."

The barrister said the victim's friends had tried to stop the attack but they carried on punching and kicking even when he was unconscious. It is believed the victim was drunk at the time.

It was revealed Hinton, in a text message to his mum the same night, wrote: "(I had a fight) with some kid. He ripped Luke's shirt so it kicked off."

"Luke pushed him because he tried to twerk with him."

One witness told the court he saw Mr Criddle bump into Luke

Martin inside the club. He added: "Luke pushed Lewis and Lewis pushed him back. They both grappled with each other's tops and Luke's top was ripped. He (Luke) seemed annoyed."

"I had a feeling something was going to happen."

TeamSport has opened a karting track in Harlow

£1.2 million indoor go-karts centre opens up on town industrial estate

A £1.2 MILLION indoor go-karting centre has opened on a Harlow industrial estate.

On Saturday, July 15 TeamSport opened its 22nd British venue on River Way which also features a restaurant, snack bar and private party room.

Dominic Gaynor, managing director of TeamSport, said: "We're really excited to be opening in Harlow."

"It's a thriving town with much to offer its residents and visitors, so it's fantastic we can now add the thrill of indoor karting to the list."

The karting centre features a 500m multi-level circuit with 15 bends, long straights and has the capacity for 16 racers to compete at one time.

TeamSport is offering a range of deals and karting offers which cater to families and adult groups, as well as those with an eye on Formula 1.

Mr Gaynor added: "Whether you're heading down to finally put a stop to your friend's claims of being the best driver, organising a fun team building corporate day or celebrating a birthday in style, the Harlow track has something to offer everyone."

"It's also the perfect place for a family fun day where kids and adults can race together and battle it out for the top spot on the podium. At our tracks we're seeing more and more people take up indoor go-karting as a hobby."

"We are fully supporting this by running offers such as half-price Wednesdays and Thursdays, discounts for students and forces and our exclusive Grid membership."

"To coincide with the opening of our Harlow track we're running an opening offer of £25 per person on selected events which is running until the end of August."

Motorist denies causing death of motorcyclist

Rider died from serious head injuries

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW woman has pleaded not guilty to causing a teenager's death by careless or inconsiderate driving.

Chelmsford Crown Court saw a video showing the moment motorcyclist Liam Brown, 18, was hit by Tammy Howard's Mini in First Avenue, Harlow, on May 25 last year.

After the collision Howard, 40, of Rushes Mead, said to a witness "What have I done? I did not see him," according to John Livingston, prosecuting.

In day one of the trial on Monday (July 24) this statement was queried by Matthew Keruish-Jones, defending, as Howard seeks to prove her innocence.

Mr Brown suffered serious head injuries and died in hospital on May 29.

Mr Livingston said: "He was riding his bike legally along a bus lane, the speed limit is 40mph and Liam Brown was travelling at that sort of speed.

"He had a view to go straight on over the junction. Mrs Howard moved across the junction when it was not safe to do so."

"The rider crashed straight into her vehicle and he was sent careering through the air and landed on his head."

"He sustained injuries from which he was to die some four days later."

Accounts

Mrs Howard did not speak during the proceedings as Mr Livingston read accounts from several witnesses.

The accounts all stated that the defendant had attempted to turn off the congested First Avenue on to Orchard Croft when the collision occurred.

Mr Livingston read from an account of a Ford Mondeo driver who was driving towards town in the same direction as Mr Brown and opposite Mrs Howard.

The lawyer read: "I was aware of the Mini waiting to turn. This was causing a queue."

"I flashed to allow it to go. The Mini driver appeared to be hesitant."

"She carefully drove in front of me and appeared to be doing no more than 15 miles an hour."

"I heard a bang to my left. I did not hear any breaking or tyre screeching. He went feet over head and landed approximately one and a half metres ahead."

He added: "I tried to comfort her (Mrs Howard) as I felt it was not her fault."

Giving evidence in the dock Louise Hamilton, another motorist to witness the incident, said children were screaming inside the Mini.

She told the court she overheard the Mondeo driver tell the defendant he "felt sorry that he had flashed her to go," while Mrs Howard admitted to not looking.

Ms Hamilton stood by this account after questioning by the defence lawyer.

The trial continues.

Protests fail to halt takeover at school

Trust gets go-ahead after 'inadequate' Ofsted rating

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A NATIONAL academy trust has committed to provide "stable, long-term leadership" at a Harlow school despite protests.

National Education Trust (NET) is set to take over Jerounds Community Primary School in September after the Pyenest Road centre received an 'inadequate' Ofsted rating.

Oppose

However, more than 650 have signed a petition to oppose the move and Harlow MP Robert Halfon wrote to regional schools commissioner Dr Tim Coulson on their behalf.

A mother told Essex Live she feared NET would try and "turn things around" in a school all are "happy with" and would prefer a local trust to take over.

On the back of the Ofsted result, which a parent put down to administrative issues, Jerounds promptly recorded its best-ever Year 6 SAT results.

A spokesman from NET said: "Ofsted visited Jerounds earlier this year and identified a number of issues that required attention."

"Since then the interim executive board has worked with the school to implement Ofsted's recommendations."

Parents protesting outside of the school

"Now we feel the school would benefit from stable, long-term leadership."

NET also control Harlow primary schools Latton Green, Abbotswold and Katherines.

Last year Milwards Primary School in Paringdon Road successfully protested against a similar takeover proposal. However, unlike Jerounds, the school had not recorded a 'requires improvement' Ofsted rating.

The NET spokesman continued: "The Department for Education has sought a sponsor to follow through our initial changes and ensure Jerounds provides excellent education opportunities. NET has a proven track record of improving schools and this year all of its academies have exceeded the national average in Key Stage 2 SATs."

"The trust will work collaboratively with pupils, staff, parents and all other interested parties to ensure any concerns are alleviated and the transition is seamless."

The Dashes play area was closed after vandalism

Play area flooring is ripped up by vandals

A POPULAR Harlow children's play area has been closed after being targeted by vandals.

Images of The Dashes play area taken on Friday, July 14, show that the floor has been pulled up and thrown around the park.

Rubbish has also been scattered around the park, including cables dumped and a shopping trolley left in the centre.

Families

The area, which is home to swings, slides, equipment for younger children and more, is enjoyed by children of families in and around the area as well as the pupils of the nearby Downs Primary School and Freshwaters Primary Academy.

A Harlow Council spokesman said: "It has been temporarily closed due to vandalism to the protective flooring."

"Unfortunately due to the level of damage, we will need to employ a specialist contractor to fix the flooring."

"We are hoping that the work will be carried out as soon as possible but until then it remains closed."

It was announced yesterday (Monday, July 24) that work to repair the play area, subject to weather conditions, is due to take place this week so that it can be reopened for children to use.

Imagery includes optional upgrades at additional cost

Players move to multi-purpose venue at Latton Farm after 21 years at Ram Gorse

Rugby club has touched down on new home turf

Club president Alan Price raises a glass to the move

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Rugby Club are hoping their new Latton Farm home will provide a boost to the pitch and in the community.

Twenty-one years after their former Ram Gorse ground was first considered as a site for housing, the team officially moved into a multi-purpose venue off Second Avenue this week.

As well as four main and two junior pitches (of which two have floodlights) there are function rooms, a bar and a café/restaurant area.

After the men's first, second and third teams were all promoted in the 2016/17 season Alan Brookings, chairman of the move, is looking forward to the future.

Promoted

He said: "The first team have been promoted to London and North East Division 2 and it is a very good standard of rugby."

"This all gives us fantastic hope and belief the club will continue to grow."

"We have had a lot of people who want to come and join."

"The building is stunning. What we have built here is the best amateur rugby facilities in the south of England."

"Our partners Harlow Council and Kier have also been instrumental in the success of this project."

The new club will open its doors to the public on Tuesday (July 18) after several members' only events, including a formal dinner on Friday.

Mr Brookings said: "We are not

Member rep Darryl Brooks, player Richard Snell and ladies' player Tracey Wedd just looking to move the rugby forward but we want to grow our community presence.

"Before the club was not open (during the week) but now it will be from 10am to 10pm with the bar open from 2pm."

"We are still a rugby club but we are getting significantly enhanced facilities for our members."

"We take our community seriously. We take a lot of care to protect the area around us."

"Like every building project there have been some delays but the building team has done a great job. Some work is still ongoing on the pitches."

Amateurs

He added: "We are still a community sports club and as such all our players are amateurs."

"Our aim is to move up one more league in two years."

"That would mean we would be in London and North East Division 1 and that is a great standard. Our aim is also to grow our ladies and girls section and to grow our youth section so we have two teams in every age group. It is our five year plan."

Kier has begun work on building 125 houses on the club's former Ram Gorse site, off Elizabeth Way.

At Latton Farm there are four main and two junior pitches, function rooms, a bar and a café/restaurant area

Ex-prisoner's bid to turn the negatives into life's positives

Word spreads fast about Messengers drop-in centre

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A REFORMED prisoner has opened a drop-in centre in The Stow for Harlow's community to enjoy.

Angelo Mulvey, 54, of Harlow, has hired Blackbush Spring Common Room on Friday nights where anyone can enjoy a free meal and chance to socialise.

In just two weeks he has seen the numbers increase from one to more than 20 people and he hopes the centre, called Messengers, can help turn around lives in The Stow area.

Help

Mr Mulvey, who is paying the expenses himself and leasing the hall from a church pastor, said: "People know me for the wrong reasons. But I am here to help."

"I like talking to people. I am just there to listen to people."

"I am helped by another guy, Luke, my wife Theresa and another volunteer Pat."

"We are just trying to give back and stop someone else from doing something stupid."

"We only had one person the first week but the following week

Visitors can come for a hot meal and to socialise

we had 22. It is growing fast." The group meets at the centre from 7pm to 10pm every Friday.

A hot meal is prepared each week. There are also table tennis facilities, a television and board games to enjoy but the main aim is the social aspect.

Messengers has support from homeless charity Harlow

Streets2Homes. Mr Mulvey, whose health leaves him unable to work, hopes the centre can offer sports coaching in the future.

He continued: "I have been inside (prison) a couple of times just for silly things and a lot of it was drink related."

"I had a brain haemorrhage, heart attack and stroke. I was in intensive care for some time and I found God after that. I have good days and bad days."

He added: "I want to stop all these (negative) things from happening in The Stow."

"I want to try and stop people from going behind a prison door, like I did. A lot of people do not have direction of guidance."

Angelo Mulvey has launched a community drop in centre

The woman said others also left their rubbish outside the school

Mum is fined for dumping rubbish bags

'It feels like council have targeted me'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MOTHER-of-two feels hard done by after Harlow Council took her to court for dumping rubbish outside a dance school.

Jessica Rowley, of Little Brays, Harlow, was fined £120 at Chelmsford Magistrates Court last month after leaving bags of household waste near the centre.

The single mum felt "embarrassed" when the news was shared and said she uses bins there when there is no space left in her own.

Bins

She said: "There have been bins there (next to the dance school) for as long as I have lived there and one day they were gone.

"I would only put my rubbish there if they were full.

"There was already rubbish left there as well.

"(I left it there as) I thought everyone was doing that."

Harlow Council found evidence in the rubbish to identify her on January 31.

The case was brought to court after she failed to pay a fixed penalty notice of £80.

She continued: "It feels like

Rubbish found outside the Harlow dance school.

they have targeted me. My neighbours were using it too but it is just that they had proof it was me. I have been charged for putting my bin bags out.

"I have not got a lot of money. I got a knock at the door telling me to pay £80."

She added: "It is embarrassing. I am not the kind of person who goes around dumping rubbish."

The council also took John Bowden, of Glebe Avenue, Lincoln, to court on the same day.

He was fined £660 after he could not produce documents licensing him to carry scrap metal and was ordered to pay a fixed penalty notice of £300, which he failed to pay within 14 days.

Councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for the environment, said: "I hope this sends a clear message to those who seek to dump rubbish and litter in our town."

Shoppers thought routine fire drill at Harvey Centre was the real thing

THE Harvey Centre and surrounding buildings in Harlow were evacuated last Thursday (July 20).

The centre was previously evacuated last month when a 'suspect package was found'.

But the evacuation, which happened around 10.30am, was a routine fire drill, according to a trader.

Around 10.55am Sam Gifford an employee of Subway in the Harvey Centre, said: "We have just evacuated.

"They do this every six months. We were outside for around 15 minutes.

"We found out it would happen yesterday."

The Harvey Centre was evacuated

Shoppers shared the news on social media, apparently unaware it was a drill.

The Harvey Centre is the most prominent indoor shopping mall in the town centre.

Al Murray hosts tribute to drummer

COMEDIAN Al Murray is compering a night of entertainment in Harlow to honour a well-regarded drummer and music teacher.

In tribute to Bob Armstrong, Murray, famous for his Pub Landlord persona, will host the event at Club Foot in Burnt Mill Academy, First Avenue, on Sunday, September 17.

Mr Armstrong's talent saw him play in West End musicals and keep the beat for international stars such as Tom Jones. For more than 30 years he also built a reputation as one of the country's best drum teachers. He passed away in June after a short spell of illness.

Smoking is banned at hospital

MANAGERS at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow are hoping to stamp out smoking on their grounds from October.

Smokers are banned from lighting up this month on the Hamstel Road site as part of an engagement exercise.

The hospital's leadership team are also inviting residents to have their say through a survey.

PAH has tried to become smoke free in the past. Dr Samir Naik, respiratory consultant, is hoping the move will be successful this time.

He said: "The harmful effect of smoking and second-hand smoke is well documented."

Concerns

"The proposal to make Princess Alexandra Hospital smoke-free is a positive step towards creating a healthier environment on our site for all."

A spokesman said PAH has made the move because of concerns from staff, visitors and patients that smoking near the entrance is unhealthy and unpleasant. There have also been complaints about the number of cigarette stubs littering the site.

As well as making the site smoke-free, the trust will encourage and support individuals who want to stop smoking by providing support to give up for good.

■ Anyone wanting to share their views can do so at www.surveymonkey.co.uk/r/JP3V6D7, until tomorrow (Friday) at 5pm.

Man taken to hospital suffering from effects of breathing in smoke

Dropped cigarette starts fire in house

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN was rushed to hospital after a Harlow house fire was started by a dropped cigarette.

Firefighters attended an address in Berecroft, Harlow, at about 1.44am last Friday (July 21) when neighbours saw smoke coming from the property.

The occupant, a man in his thirties, managed to escape but was suffering from smoke inhalation and was left in the care of East of England Ambulance Service (EEAST).

Extinguished

A spokesman from Essex County Fire and Rescue Service (ECFRS) said: "Firefighters entered the property and managed to quickly extinguish the fire which was in a living room.

"The property suffered slight smoke damage, but thanks to the quick action of fire crews the blaze did not spread and the damage was minimal.

"Firefighters found the cause was a cigarette which had not been extinguished properly and had been dropped on the floor."

A spokesman from East of England Ambulance Service said: "We had a call at 2am.

"We sent two ambulance crews to the scene and treated a man in his thirties. He was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital."

On the back of the incident ECFRS is warning residents about the danger of dropping cigarettes in a house.

Paul Cooper, station officer at

The scene of the blaze in Berecroft, Harlow

Photo: GOOGLE

Harlow Fire Station, said: "Incidents like this show how important it is to take care when disposing of smoking materials.

"If you're a smoker or have a smoker living in your house, make sure you follow our advice to stay safe at home."

The force has issued the following advice:

■ Make sure your all cigarettes are fully extinguished.

■ Take extra care when you're tired, taking any sort of drugs or have been drinking alcohol. It's very easy to fall asleep while your cigarette is still burning.

■ Never smoke in bed – if you need to lie down, don't light up. You could doze off and set your bed on fire.

■ Never leave lit cigarettes unattended – they can easily over-balance as they burn down.

■ Use a proper, heavy ashtray that can't tip over easily and is made of a material that won't burn. Make sure your cigarette is fully extinguished.

■ Tap your ash into an ashtray, never a wastebasket containing other rubbish – and don't let the ash or cigarette ends build up in the ashtray.

■ Use child safe matches and cigarette lighters and keep them safely out of the reach of children.

■ Fit and maintain a smoke alarm – a working smoke alarm can buy you valuable time to get out, stay out and call 999.

Designs on the Harlow prize

Nine shortlisted for architecture awards

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

NINE new buildings are in the running to be named the town's best in the 2017 Harlow Architectural Design Awards (HADAs).

After a nomination period and analysis by a judging panel, five properties have made the cut for the residential prize and four for the non-residential.

All nine have been constructed in the past year.

Shortlisted

Harlow Cricket Club's pavilion is among those nominated and will coincidentally be the venue for the awards ceremony on October 22, which is organised by Harlow Civic Society.

Other shortlisted entries for the non-residential prize are: Kao One, Harlow Rugby Club and Spurriers/Pets Corner upgrade.

Those on the residential list are: High Chase, 54 Old Road, 10 Headland Street, 6 and 8 Rosefield Street and 4, 6 and 8 Headland Street. Online voting has now started to choose the winners.

Paul McLintic of Harlow Civic Society said: "We are delighted to Number 6 and 8 Rosefield Street have been nominated have already generated a lot of interest in this year's Architectural Design Awards.

"Having considered all of the nominations in-depth and picked the best examples in each category, we would like to encourage as many people as possible to take part in this part of the process and really make your vote count."

The winners will be chosen by a panel of judges, who will consider the number of votes each building received. Polls close on August 31.

You can read more about all shortlisted entries and vote for your favourite new Harlow building at www.harlowarchitecturealdesignawards.org.uk/shortlist/

Market Square plans 'not ambitious'

A CONSERVATIVE member of Harlow Council has said plans to regenerate Market Square are not ambitious enough.

Last week the local authority unveiled a proposal to transform the town centre from 'barren land' into a 'thriving events area'. Councillor Tony Durcan, part of the ruling Labour group, said the play area will be upgraded and table tennis tables installed and the focus will be on providing a space to host an event.

But councillor Joel Charles, Tory spokesman on regeneration, feels more needs to be done.

He said: "While it is important to improve Market Square and invest in facilities that attract more people, this latest makeover plan is not ambitious enough. Residents want Harlow Council to push forward with plans to regenerate the town centre that will leave a lasting positive impact and deliver attractive new facilities for everyone to enjoy.

"There should be more emphasis on delivering the bigger picture, investing in better infrastructure across the town centre to attract a better variety of retail and leisure opportunities."

Improvements will be funded by the council's capital programme budget.

Works, set to begin in September, will also include moving red plant pots to the perimeter and initiating free wifi for Market Square and Terminus Street Bus Station.

Mr Durcan said: "Rather than just a large barren space doing nothing, we want Market Square to become an area of opportunity."

"We want to give it a much-needed makeover and bring it alive with activity."

"We want it to become a thriving events area, an area where people can play sport, relax and socialise."

Councillor Joel Charles

Dunkirk brings back memories of father who survived... and uncle who didn't

Blockbuster film brings family's loss to the fore

By Martin Ford

martin.ford@hertsandsexnews.co.uk

THE horror of war has been laid bare in the true story behind a blockbuster film.

Christopher Nolan's Dunkirk hits cinemas last week, having received critical acclaim for its portrayal of the evacuation on British and French troops from the beaches of France in 1940.

However, the armada of "little ships" sent out from England was unable to rescue everyone, as Harlow resident David Barham, 83, can recall.

Mr Barham was barely old enough to start school when his father William and uncle Herbert, both corporals in the Royal 5th Sussex Territorial Regiment, left for the continent at the outset of the Second World War.

"I remember them all marching to the station," he said.

However, they found themselves falling back to the French port under the onslaught of the German military

'Run for it'

Mr Barham said: "When the order was given to retreat to Dunkirk, William found and told Bert he had promised his mother he would look after him and that Bert should come with him."

"He said 'we have got to run for it, you stick with me', but he said 'no, I'm going to say with my mates'."

The brothers were never to see each other again.

Mr Barham said: "My dad's platoon was sent to stop some armoured cars, but they got caught out in the open. All they could do was throw themselves in a ditch."

"I believe my father was the only survivor from his group of soldiers."

William has hit by shrapnel in his arms, legs, shoulder and face, and so great were his injuries that the Germans that attacked his unit assumed he would not survive.

"They kicked my father over and left him for dead," Mr Barham added.

Fortunately, a passing army motorcyclist chanced upon William and helped him to the beaches of Dunkirk, where hundreds of thousands of his comrades awaited rescue.

"It was a matter of getting out to a ship that would take them."

"He remembered being carried out to the ship on a stretcher – he felt the water on his back."

Despite initially being sent back to the beach, eventually he found himself on a boat bound for England, and he was taken to a hospital in Kent.

Mr Barham and family moved from Hastings to be at his bedside.

"I can remember walking down the ward, all those wounded people," Mr Barham said.

"Either side of him there were people who had been in the water with the burning oil."

"But they were all still cheerful."

It was later that William learned that Bert had been killed in France.

"I can remember that when my father was released from the hospital he had to return to his regiment, so we visited his mother's home," Mr Barham added.

"There was a picture on the mantel of his brother Bert, my father cried when he saw it."

"This was the only time I ever saw my father cry."

Mr Barham was evacuated from Hastings to a farm in rural Somerset, before joining his father in Yorkshire, where he was posted with the RAF regiment, having returned to active service.

When he was demobbed in 1945, William resumed his pre-war work as a labourer in the construction industry in Hastings until his death at the age of 60.

Mr Barham said: "He worked and worked and worked for his family. He was a wonderful man, who only thought of his family."

Mr Barham moved to London and then to Harlow in 1962 with his wife Jean, where they raised three children. In recent years, Mr Barham has set up a website to record his family history and his life as a trade unionist in Harlow.

He said: "I don't want it all to die out, what the unions and working people have done over the years."

■ AERIAL LADDER

Prevention is better than cure

I, LIKE Susan Short (Letter, July 20), am appalled by the loss of our aerial ladder. Surely prevention is better than cure.

In the past I have watched the local firemen train on this unit, which meant that they were ready at all times for any incident. Now we will have to wait at least 30 minutes for the unit to arrive from Chelmsford.

I take it that our unit will now either be sold or put in a museum, or left to rot somewhere.

Shame on all those who have come to this decision, and I hope and pray that they do not have to, at some time, say how sorry they are when a disaster happens.

■ BBC INEQUALITY

The scandal of huge salaries

IF we are not careful, the scandal of the inequality of pay in the BBC and the huge salaries paid, highlighted last week, will be hijacked by a small group of their already highly paid women presenters.

They claim to be concerned for equality but by equality they do not mean equality with the vast majority of both men and women who are paid far less than they are. No! They want the same salaries as the already highly overpaid men.

But equality can be better achieved not by raising the salaries of the best-paid women but by immediately reducing the salaries of the most highly paid men. The real wage problem is not gender inequality between men and women. Rather it is the general salary inequality between the rich and poor. This should be immediately addressed by raising the salaries of the poorest paid, be they men or women, rather than using its limited resources to actually increase the wage difference.

Rather than these women being heroes of gender equality they are demonstrating the same selfish greed as their male privileged counterparts.

The problem of course is not limited to the BBC but is general throughout the system. We hear much of the glass ceiling, which

College students say it with flowers

HARLOW College national citizen service (NCS) students helped Hastingswood-based charity St Clare Hospice in a kind gesture.

The business, construction and ESOL (English as a foreign language) scholars built and filled flower pots which will decorate the hospice's grounds.

Dogs on parade at summer fayre

A PACK of four legged friends paraded at St Mary's Church in Great Parndon, Harlow, as part of a summer fayre.

The Anglican church held its annual dog show earlier this month and canines of all shapes and sizes enjoyed the good weather. Judges voted Milo, a dog belonging to Luke Martin, of Harlow, as best in show.

Town MP Robert Halfon was present for the prize giving. Owners and residents were treated to a barbecue and an array of stalls.

prevents the most fortunate women from going even higher and getting more pay.

We hear far less from the poorest, men and women, struggling at the bottom of the wage ladder.

Harlow

■ WORN-OUT TOWN

Remember the heydays

I WAS born in Harlow and still live here and remember it in its heyday of the 60s and 70s, I can not believe what a state the town is in.

There is the abandoned YMCA building standing there for the last two years and next it now the boarded up Square building. They can join the boarded up Old Passmores School that dominates the landscape when looking out from the watergardens.

The market square which cost God knows how much for the large red planters only a year or so back stand there with their dead plants in them as a testament of a council that does not care.

Last Saturday I was walking from behind Wetherspoons to Wych Elm when people on the path had to stop as many large – and I mean large – rats were running around on the path in broad daylight from the bushes next to the Total petrol station.

When you travel to other towns you see roundabouts neatly kept in order with plants and cut grass etc.

Children and professionals meet at William Martin careers fayre

Children quiz policeman and zoo keeper at careers fayre

YEAR 5 and 6 pupils at William Martin School, Tawneys Road, Harlow, were visited by professionals as part of a careers fayre.

A policeman, pharmacist, illustrator and zoo keeper were among those to answer questions and help give children an idea of what they might like to do in the future.

Andrew Jacobs, deputy head teacher, said: "At William Martin School we think it's really important that children learn about life beyond school and about all the opportunities they may have."

In Harlow no such luck with each roundabout looking more wild than the last when clearly other towns can budget for basic maintenance, why can't Harlow?

The difference is that back in the 60s and the 70s we had council workers whose jobs it was to maintain the town now we have unskilled contractors doing it on the cheap.

We need to return to the model of the past where the council took pride in their town.

Tony Pearson
Harlow

■ MARKET SQUARE

Area needs a makeover

I WAS interested to read the comments made by Councillor Durcan with regard to the proposed revamp of Market Square.

Not so very long ago, the area was a thriving market and at some point the council in its wisdom decided to put in some very large rubbish bins (oops sorry, flower pots) and a play area. To this day, I can count the number of children I have seen playing there on one hand.

Yes, it needs a makeover AGAIN but I suggest that the council need to consult with people who live or shop in Harlow for ideas.

Councillor Durcan suggests it could be a place for people to play sport, relax and socialise – I do hope he does not think another coffee shop is required!

■ HUGE THANKS

Chemotherapy made bearable

I WOULD like to say a huge thank you to all the staff at PAH for their care over the past months.

Everyone was kind, caring, and the treatment I received was second to none. My special thanks to all the people at the Williams Day Unit, who made a course of chemotherapy bearable and for always making me laugh.

Thankfully I have been given the all clear, but will not forget their efficiency, care and kindness that was always present.

Hundreds refuse to let rain spoil procession of floats and then music festival

Carnival spirit shines through for day of fun

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS braved the rain to enjoy a carnival celebrating Harlow's 70th anniversary and Link-Fest music festival.

Crowds watched floats travel from The Stow to Harlow Town Park on Sunday afternoon before musicians performed on the bandstand.

Robert Halfon, Harlow MP, said: "It has been an amazing day.

"Massive congratulations to Harlow Council and to all of the carnival floats.

"I have been invited by Arriva to go through the carnival on a bus. It has been great fun."

Families enjoyed an array of stalls, dancing and music from bands such as: Wrong Jovi, Fubar, Cadence and The Hamwabs.

Free festival LinkFest is now in its sixth year and is held on two Sundays.

When the heavens opened around 1pm, organiser Jamie

Crowds brave the weather to watched the colourful event

Pring feared crowds may disappear but said a record crowd stuck around to hear the music.

Speaking at lunchtime, he said: "It has been amazing, it is early days. It has rained and people are still here. I think this is the best one we have ever done. We have never had this many people here before."

Harlow Carnival was held on Sunday

Hundreds also enjoyed music at LinkFest

In addition the Scooter Rideout and Family Fun Day was enjoyed by more than 60 riders from various clubs. Their ride from The Link in Parsloe Road culminated at Burnt Mill Academy where musicians performed inside newly erected venue Club Foot.

The Chords UK and The Feb 21s played songs and The Bodysnatchers' singer Rhoda Dakar was behind the turntables for a DJ set.

Event organiser Adam Smith thanked sponsors of the free event, and said: "Harlow Council has asked if we would like to repeat the event next year.

"So if we can get funding sorted we would definitely like to do so."

The next edition of LinkFest will be held on Sunday, August 27.

Harlow Council stated on Twitter they are weighing up holding a carnival in 2018.

GIRLS TRIP (15)

Sugar and spice and all things nice – that's not what the girls in director Malcolm D Lee's raucous comedy are made of.

Indeed, the central quartet of fun-loving forty-somethings are more likely to smear the ingredients of the 19th century nursery rhyme over their naked body parts, or chug them down with absinthe.

Girls Trip performs a brazen gender-flip on The Hangover and dispenses four friends to New Orleans to make embarrassing memories they can laugh about for the rest of their lives.

Scriptwriters Kenya Harris and Tracy Oliver don't spare the characters' blushes, including one delirious sequence involving a deluge of bodily fluids that gives new meaning to raining on someone's parade.

The ace in the film's hole is comedian Tiffany Haddish, who blows all of her co-stars off the screen with a virtuoso performance reminiscent of Melissa McCarthy's scene-stealing turn in Bridesmaids.

Lisa is recovering from a painful divorce from her cheating husband while journalist Sasha has abandoned her moral compass to pay the rent with a salacious celebrity gossip blog.

Ryan and her husband, retired American football player Stewart Pierce (Mike Colter), are on the verge of polishing their brand to a lustre with a multimillion-dollar TV deal off the back of her best-selling book, You Can Have It All.

Ryan's promotional duties include a keynote speech at Essence Music Festival in New Orleans and she decides to combine work with pleasure by inviting her gal pals for a VIP weekend of excess. Single mother Lisa has been chaste for too long in fun-loving Dina's eyes, so when a handsome student (Kofi Siriboe) takes an interest, the other girls encourage Lisa to enjoy a lusty fling.

Girls Trip succeeds where so many adult-oriented comedies falter: it delivers a barrage of deafening laughs, sweetened by winning chemistry between the lead actors.

Every time Haddish is off screen and we can draw breath, the script resorts to frothy soap opera staples: friendship, betrayal and emotional healing.

47 METRES DOWN (15)

It's not safe to get out of the water in director Johannes Roberts's streamlined horror thriller.

47 Metres Down pits two pretty girls against one of cinema's most deadly and tenacious predators – the great white shark.

Unlike Steven Spielberg's 1975 classic Jaws or yesteryear's surprisingly entertaining The Shallows starring Blake Lively, Roberts's picture subverts the usual damsel in distress set-up by stranding his protagonists beneath the waves.

A diminishing oxygen supply and decompression sickness pose as much of a threat as the rapacious killing machines, and the stricken characters are compelled to make snap decisions that could condemn a sister in peril to a watery grave.

Clothed in wetsuits and illuminated diving masks, Mandy Moore and Claire Holt rely almost entirely on facial expressions to convey their terror and delirium. There are only so many ways they can hyperventilate or stare wide-eyed into the murk.

47 Metres Down is an efficient battle between humans and merciless Mother Nature, which milks a modicum of tension from a simple premise.

The narrative treads water between predictable set pieces as the script contrives reasons to keep the sisters underwater while their oxygen gauges approach empty.

With only half a dozen characters as potential shark bait, Roberts can't slaughter to his heart's desire but when razor sharp teeth do sink into gym-toned flesh, it's suitably graphic.

The Big Sick is sweet and smart

THE BIG SICK (15)

Just when it seemed that heartfelt romantic comedies might be in terminal decline and doomed to labour on life support, along comes director Michael Showalter's uplifting and bittersweet tale of cross-cultural love.

Based on the real-life courtship of Pakistani-American stand-up comedian Kumail Nanjiani and his wife Emily V Gordon, who co-wrote the script, The Big Sick is a small, perfectly formed gem, which is polished to a dazzling glister by a superb ensemble cast.

Nanjiani plays himself to deadpan perfection and he catalyses molten screen chemistry with co-star Zoe Kazan as the luminous object of his awkward affections.

Their fledgling romance is sketched in delicate strokes and when this amour fou hits an almighty speed bump that compels Emily to tearfully confide, "You make me sad inside my heart," we are devastated like her paramour.

The two-hour running time allows Nanjiani and Kazan to populate each unfussy frame with flawed, believable and endearing characters, who don't always know what to say to ease the pain of the people they adore.

Trickles of saltwater tears are mopped up with swathes of sincere, warm-hearted humour.

If laughter is the best medicine then a spoonful of Showalter's film is a tonic that leaves the sweetest feeling.

In 2006, Kumail (Nanjiani) hones his craft on the Chicago comedy scene with fellow stand-ups CJ (Bo Burnham), Mary (Aidy Bryant) and Chris (Kurt Braunohler).

To pay the rent, Kumail works as a taxi driver and he enjoys precious family time with his father Azmat (Anupam Kher), brother Naveed (Adeel Akhtar) and mother Sharmeen (Zenobia Shroff), who invites a different Pakistani Muslim woman to the dinner table each night as a potential love match.

After one comedy gig, Kumail meets spunky audience member Emily (Kazan) and there is a palpable spark of attraction.

Kumail keeps the relationship secret from his family, then

Emily discovers a cigar box filled with photographs of women hand-picked by his mother.

"Are you judging Pakistan's next top model?" she inquires jokingly.

When Kumail nervously explains his parents' presumption of arranged marriage, Emily feels betrayed and tearfully asks, "Can you imagine a world in which we end up together?"

"I don't know," he replies.

Soon after, Emily contracts a serious infection and doctors induce a medical coma.

It's left to Kumail to contact Emily's parents, Beth (Holly Hunter) and Terry (Ray Romano), and the trio bond awkwardly in the hospital waiting room and cafeteria.

The Big Sick wears its easily broken heart on its sleeve and elicits roaring belly laughs from the central duo's predicament.

The script generously distributes the best lines between the cast, including Hunter and Romano as delightfully protective parents with their own relationship woes.

Director Showalter nimbly sidesteps genre clichés, allowing the pithy and occasionally withering words to speak louder than his actions.

BOOKSHELF

ARE YOU LYING COMFORTABLY IN A SUNNY SPOT ON THE BEACH? THEN WE'LL BEGIN...

ONE of the best things about going on holiday is getting to catch up on all those talked-about books you haven't read yet. Whether you're a Kindle addict or prefer the real thing there's something to suit all tastes in our round-up.

TOP PICKS

THE MINISTRY OF UTMOST HAPPINESS

Arundhati Roy (Hamish Hamilton)
THE heaviest tome on our list comes 20 years after Arundhati Roy's debut novel, The God Of Small Things.

The Ministry Of Utmost Happiness mines her research on India's troubled political system, delicately braiding together strands of the brutal and toxic Kashmir conflict, with the difficulties faced by a community of hijra (transgender people, now recognised as the 'third gender' in Indian law) and the fate of a baby abandoned on a rubbish-strewn street.

Roy's use of language is beautiful and inventive - she demands your mind and your time, and the rewards are huge.

THE SUNSHINE SISTERS

Jane Green (Macmillan)
DEFINITELY the 'beachiest' book of our 12, this is the story of beautiful and charismatic B-movie actress Ronni's three daughters.

Self-absorbed and disinterested, Ronni wasn't the mother she wanted to be. Nell, Meredith and Lizzy have been left to their own devices, estranged from their Ronni - and each other - until in adulthood they are summoned home as Ronni has motor neurone disease and is at the end of her life.

Can this fractured family forgive their past and heal? This novel pulls on the heartstrings, but also feels like coming home.

SMALL GREAT THINGS

Jodi Picoult (Hodder & Stoughton)
WHEN a newborn baby dies after a routine hospital procedure, there is no doubt who will be held responsible, the black nurse who has been banned from looking after him by his white supremacist father. What follows is a tense courtroom drama after nurse Ruth Jefferson is charged with his murder and her fate lies in the hands of white public defender Kennedy McQuarrie.

Picoult is an accomplished storyteller and this is a thought provoking book about prejudice and power.

ELEANOR OLIPHANT IS COMPLETELY FINE

Gail Honeyman (HarperCollins)
ELEANOR has worked at the same boring job for eight years. She has the same routine; home, the Archers and pasta and salad for tea. On a Friday evening, she buys a pizza and two bottles of vodka to see her through the weekend. Eleanor, who's 31, was in care through much of her childhood and has hazy flashbacks to a traumatic event.

12 Brilliant holiday reads

When scruffy new office IT guy Raymond and Eleanor see an elderly man take a tumble, it draws the two of them together into a tentative friendship that will eventually help Eleanor break free from her lonely existence and learn how to live.

She's a joy to read as a character.

CRIME AND THRILLERS

INTO THE WATER
Paula Hawkins (Doubleday)

THE follow-up to the huge-seller The Girl On The Train is set in a village in Northumberland, where Jules Abbott returns home following the death of her estranged sister, Nel.

Was it suicide or foul play? The plot quickly thickens, as the stretch of water where she's found has a long history as the scene of a series of tragic female deaths.

Nel herself was artistically obsessed with this place, known locally as The Drowning Pool, and the book similarly seeks to draw us in to its darkly compelling depths. Hawkins is very good at describing characters experiencing extreme emotions, and there are passages and scenes that are gripping.

THE CHILD Fiona Barton (Bantam Press)
JOURNALIST Kate Waters is back and this time investigating the decades-old skeleton of a baby found on an east London building site. Kate is determined to find out who buried the baby and if it's Alice Irving, a newborn stolen from a local maternity hospital in the Seventies. The pace of Kate's investigation is matched by the unravelling story of Emma Massingham, who is struggling to come to terms with her own past. Every couple of chapters, Barton kicks the novel's suspense into a new gear, and you won't be able to put it down until all the secrets have been shared.

THE GIRLFRIEND

Michelle Frances (Pan Macmillan)
LAURA and her son Daniel have always been close, but he's been away at university. When he returns home after graduating, she relishes spending time with him. In a matter of days though, Daniel meets Cherry, a bright, ambitious estate agent who has always wanted more for herself.

Laura invites Cherry over for a family meal, but rather than forging a friendship, the two women get off to a less than auspicious start.

Michelle Frances' skill lies in taking a relationship familiar to many, and creating two characters who transform it into something much more malignant, keeping the reader on a knife-edge throughout.

HE SAID, SHE SAID

Erin Kelly (Minotaur)
THIS best-seller is so gripping you might forget to sip your poolside mojito, you will be so busy turning its pages.

When Laura and her boyfriend Kit witness a brutal rape, their testimony helps to put the culprit behind bars. The victim seems grateful but years go by and things take a sinister turn - 15 years later the couple are living in fear under assumed identities. Told in the words of Kit and Laura in alternating chapters, this is an exploration of the lengths to which people will go to conceal a lie. Kelly keeps you twisting and turning all the way and you will love it.

MYSTERY

THE ESSEX SERPENT

Sarah Perry (HarperCollins)
WATERSTONES' Book of 2016, Sarah Perry's novel is now out in paperback making it much easier to take on holiday. The beautifully written book is set in 19th-century England and tells the story of Cora Seaborne, a widow freed from a controlling unhappy marriage who retreats to the Essex countryside with her son, where she hears rumours about the so called 'Essex serpent', which is being blamed for a spate of mysterious deaths.

BEST NON-FICTION

I FOUND MY TRIBE

Ruth Fitzmaurice (Chatto & Windus)
RUTH FITZMAURICE and her husband Simon were happily married and expecting their third child when he was diagnosed with Motor Neurone Disease in 2008. Given only three years to live, he is still alive nearly a decade later, but can now only communicate with his eyes.

Fitzmaurice struggles - with Simon's decline and the pressure of looking after their five children. But in the midst of all this, she finds her 'tribe' - the Tragic Wives' Swimming Club, a group of friends who regularly brave the Irish Sea to gain a fleeting moment of exhilaration, normality and freedom.

Fitzmaurice's book is poetic, devastating, life-affirming and funny.

WEDDING TOASTS I'LL NEVER GIVE

Ada Calhoun (W.W. Norton & Company)
ADA CALHOUN'S new book of essays is no place for soul mates and generic declarations of togetherness. Instead, there's resentment for missing flights, breaking bathroom taps and finding other people attractive.

If this sounds cynical, it's not meant to be; Calhoun is supportive of love and those who seek it out. Her sweetest moments are those where she zones in on the minutiae of her marriage and being a parent.

Calhoun reserves her final essay for the one speech she would give newlyweds.

Hopeful, sensible and grounded in reality, it serves as guidance to those in long-term relationships and those embarking on them.

BUT SERIOUSLY

John McEnroe (W&N)
IF you're missing McEnroe's iconic voice in his Wimbledon commentaries, dip into his second autobiography. His first, 2003's Serious, charted his childhood and early days of tennis - which progressed to seven Grand Slam singles titles, the 'Superbrat' reputation and a tumultuous eight-year marriage to actress Tatum O'Neal, marred by her addiction battles, his hot temper and their three children.

Now, the follow-up deals with his struggles to reinvent himself as a father, art collector, musician and broadcaster, his relationship with second wife Patty Smyth, and his efforts to be the best father he could to his six children.

FAMILY HEALTH

SUNSHINE ALWAYS MEANS A LITTLE MORE FLESH ON DISPLAY. MICHELE O'CONNOR HAS A GUIDE TO COMMON PROBLEMS - AND SOLUTIONS

Treating psoriasis

PSORIASIS

THIS inflammatory skin condition causes thickening, redness and scaling, explains Dr Waiyat Hussain, consultant dermatologist at Nuffield Health Leeds Hospital. It can be localised to areas such as the scalp or fingers, or can affect the whole body. Characterised by remission and flare-ups.

FIX IT:

■ TOPICAL treatments – creams and ointments – are used for mild to moderate psoriasis. As well as emollients to moisturise the skin and alleviate dryness, the most common are corticosteroids which work by reducing inflammation.

NO IMPROVEMENT?

■ ASK to see a dermatologist for stronger treatments that include drugs which reduce the turnover rate of skin cells – new biologic injections that work by blocking the chemicals that lead to the immune response, and phototherapy, which involves precise doses of ultraviolet light being used on the affected skin to suppress inflammation.

FACE IT:

■ ALTHOUGH you may be on holiday, drinking too much alcohol can trigger flare-ups – so don't overdo it and drink plenty of water to keep skin hydrated. ■ THE good news is that the sun provides vitamin D which, according to a recent study, people with psoriasis may be deficient in. It found taking supplements can help to reduce skin lesions and prevent the excessive production of skin cells. Try Super Strength Vitamin D3, £12.95 for 240 tablets, from healthspan.co.uk. ■ ENJOY fresh tomatoes: They contain lycopene, which is thought to suppress free radicals – molecules believed to be responsible for cell damage and ageing in the skin caused by the sun.

INGROWN HAIRS

CAN occur when the follicles becomes clogged with dead skin cells. It's more likely to happen if the hair is already curly or coarse, and if you've recently shaved.

FIX IT:

■ WASH with an anti-bacterial soap to reduce inflammation and prevent infection. Gently exfoliate with a loofah or washcloth every other day to help dislodge trapped hairs and prevent them returning.

FACE IT:

■ DON'T pick or scratch, as bacteria can enter, increasing your risk of infection. ■ DAB the affected area with mild antiseptic such as tea tree oil. ■ CONSIDER depilatory creams, electrolysis or laser removal instead of shaving

ACNE

"ACNE is a process involving the blocking of pores with impurities, excessive oil, inflammation and bacteria," says Dr Terry Loong, author of The Hormonal Acne Solution (£14.99, Amazon). Unlike the classic T-zone of teenage acne, most adult acne occurs on the cheeks, chin and jaw line.

FIX IT:

■ TRY over-the-counter treatments containing benzoyl peroxide, a mild bleach which removes the top layer of skin, unblocks pores and has an

ECZEMA

CLASSIC signs include patches of dry, red, itchy, scaly skin, says Dr Hussain. With chronic, persistent eczema, there may also be thickening, scaling and darkening of the skin.

FIX IT:

■ MOISTURISING is vital, says Dr Hussain: Look for greasy, oily emollients. ■ STEROID creams are often used to reduce the inflammation, redness and irritation but must be monitored as long-term use can cause thinning of the skin.

NO IMPROVEMENT?

■ ASK to be referred to a dermatologist for stronger medication or phototherapy.

FACE IT:

■ AVOID chemical sunscreens, says antiseptic effect on the surface bacteria that cause acne.

■ WASHES and creams containing salicylic acid slow the shedding of cells inside the pores which cause clogging and pimples.

NO IMPROVEMENT?

■ ASK your doctor about prescription antibiotic gels and creams. A low-dose course of antibiotics, such as tetracycline, may also be prescribed. ■ ASK for a referral to a dermatologist who can prescribe stronger treatments, like isotretinoin.

FACE IT:

■ ENJOY the sun. It boosts vitamin D and can help treat symptoms. But too much can block pores with dry skin.

Dr Isabel Sharkar, dermatologist from Sond Skincare: "Ingredients to beware of include parabens, retinol, vitamin A, salicylates, cinnamates and benzophenone."

■ AVOID petroleum-based washes and paraffin oil in skin products. Try Pure Potions Skin Salvation Bath and Body Oil, £12.99 for 200ml from Holland & Barrett.

■ PACK manuka honey, advises Sally Temple, nutritional therapist at Nuffield Health: "It contains antibacterial, antifungal and antiseptic properties, so can help support the immune system."

■ CONSIDER taking probiotics before and during your holiday. "They can reduce eczema as well as your risk of tummy upsets by decreasing intestinal inflammation," says Sally. "I recommend a high-quality, broad-spectrum probiotic such as Optibac for Every Day Extra Strength." (£22.99 for 30 capsules).

■ GO make-up free while on holiday – or look for the words non-comedogenic (non-clogging) on make-up.

■ KEEP exercising. Activity will keep you healthy and can help unblock your pores by making you sweat. Just make sure you wash straight after exercise. ■ DRINK lots of water. It's essential for all of your bodily functions, including the liver which controls hormone production.

■ AVOID brushes and scrubs as exfoliation will make inflammation worse. Don't squeeze spots.

■ WATCH what you eat. Too much sugar, dairy and refined carbs can make it worse. Almonds, blueberries, avocados and kidney beans may help to reduce inflammation, says Mary Cotter, registered nutritional therapist, Nuffield Health.

■ WEAR loose cotton clothing because synthetic fibres, such as polyester and nylon, trap heat easier than natural fibre Stay in the shade and use a hand-held fan. ■ DRINK plenty of fluids to avoid dehydration.

FIX IT:

■ TRY calamine lotion, a mild antiseptic that soothes the area, advises Samantha Preston, LloydsPharmacy pharmacist and allergy expert. Or calendula cream (£4.39 for 30g - Holland & Barrett) to soothe itchiness and irritation.

Hydrocortisone cream will reduce the swelling and itching, adds Samantha: "It's not suitable for the face or for more than one week, so ask your pharmacist for advice."

FACE IT:

■ TAKE cool showers; use air-conditioning in your room and try a cooling spray (Boots Hot Weather Cooling Spray, £3.99).

Fight the fade

KATIE WRIGHT UNCOVERS SOME EXPERT TIPS TO KEEP YOUR HAIR LOOKING VIBRANT ALL SUMMER LONG

WHILE there's a lot to love about summer holidays – like lie-ins, lazy beach days and spamming your friends with envy-inducing Instagram posts – there's one downside: even the brightest of hair colours can be ravaged by all that sun, sea and sand.

"When we think of the sun damaging coloured hair, we immediately think of the effect on blonde hair, but in reality, all colours are prone to fade and this can be disastrous for redheads and brunettes too," says Maria Kovacs, Tigi European session director.

So what do you do – just whack on a heat-protection spray and hope for the best? Actually, there's a lot more you can do to keep your colour looking vibrant and your locks healthy, starting before you jet off. Here are the experts' top tips for fighting the fade...

1 DON'T DYE BEFORE YOU FLY

"HAVE your hair coloured eight to 15 days before departure on holiday," says hair colourist Christophe Robin.

"Or else opt for a very minimal 'tie and dye,' or highlights on just a few strands around your face."

2 CHOOSE YOUR COLOUR CAREFULLY

"EXCESSIVE colour fade comes from damaged hair," advises Sophia Hilton, founder of Not Another Salon.

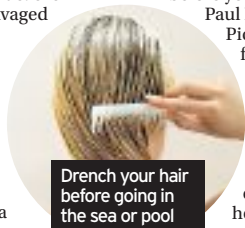

"Prevention is better than cure. We use INNOLuxe in all our colours, to protect at the same time to stop this. My advice is to make sure your colourist is using something to protect your hair."

3 DON'T WASH YOUR HAIR EVERY DAY

"IF YOU can avoid daily washing, it is preferable for coloured hair. Just get used to spritzing with dry shampoo on no-wash days and you'll see a difference," says Kerrie O'Reilly, TIGI Academy technical director.

4 WETTER HAIR IS BETTER

"HAIR is like a sponge, so if you don't have any swim protection cream, just drench it with fresh water from the shower or even a bottle before you go in the sea or pool," suggests Paul Dennison, hair colourist at Ken Picton Salon. "The water effectively fills the gaps in the keratin, so the salt or chlorinated water can't get in as much."

Drench your hair before going in the sea or pool

5 RINSE WITH COOL WATER

CELEBRITY hairstylist Phil Smith says: "I always advise clients to avoid rinsing hair with hot water; instead opt for cold water as this helps to preserve the hair dye. Washing with hot water opens the pores and allows the dye to escape."

6 BE GENTLE WHEN TOWEL-DRYING

"TOWEL-DRYING your hair is yet another way to make colour fade fast," Smith warns. "It will scrape colour out of the cuticle layer of hair that could already be open from your shower. Try gently blotting the hair and let it air-dry as much as you can." Or, try the AQUIS Lisse Luxe Hair Towel, £30 (aquishair.co.uk), which is made from an extra-soft textile that isn't as harsh on hair.

7 MAKE YOUR OWN HAIR SUNSCREEN

"HAIR sunscreens are really important but if you're on a budget, add a teaspoon of factor 50 to a small spritz bottle and mix with hot water, then spray in," says Jack Howard, colourist at Paul Edmonds.

Avoid washing your hair every day

8 DITCH THE HEAT STYLERS

"WHEN we use heat on our hair again and again, it begins to damage the outer layer of the hair, meaning colour molecules can escape faster," says Esther

THREE OF THE BEST HOLIDAY HAIR PROTECTORS

■ Sassoon Professional Halo Hydrate £17.45, regissalons.co.uk

Couchman, salon specialist & technical educator. "Ditch your straighteners and tongs over the summer months and opt to let your hair dry naturally instead."

9 INVEST IN HIGH-QUALITY SHAMPOO AND CONDITIONER

"AIM to keep your colour fresh by using a professional shampoo or conditioner. High street brands may be cheaper but they are often not powerful enough to maintain colour to a noticeable standard," say the pros at Taylor Taylor salon.

Ditch the hair straighteners

10 USE PROTECTION

"APPLYING a water-resistant cream that contains a UV filter will help prevent colour change when you're in the sun or swimming in the sea or pool," says Anabel Kingsley, trichologist at Philip Kingsley. "To additionally prevent colour change, wear a wide-brimmed hat or sit under a beach umbrella."

Colour fade can happen to all colours of hair

■ BEAUTY editors love the Bean Body range. Now there is a new addition for summer – Bean Body Coffee Scrub, a 100% natural exfoliator containing ground Robusta coffee beans and cold-pressed coconut oil for silky smooth, soft skin. Himalayan pink rock salt and Demerara sugar help buff away dead skin cells for a smoother more refined-looking skin tone.

Find it at at Holland & Barrett, RRP £14.95.

■ YOU'VE heard of contouring, you've heard of highlighting, but how about 'solar strobing'? This trend involves blending bronzy highlighter on the areas that catch the sun to make your face look more tanned and sculpted.

Bourjois Sculpt Bronze, £10.99, is perfect for it and also works a treat just mixed into your day cream for a general glow boost. Find it at Boots and Superdrug.

INGREDIENTS

335g self-raising flour; 335g unsalted butter, softened; 335g golden caster sugar; 3tsp baking powder; 6 large eggs; Grated zest of 2 lemons; Juice of 1 lemon; 150g fresh raspberries; 600ml double cream; 500g fresh strawberries, hulled; Icing sugar, to finish

BERRY NICE

TRIPLE-LAYER BERRY
VICTORIA SPONGE
(SERVES 10-12)

METHOD

1. Preheat the oven to 160°C fan (180°C/350°F/Gas Mark 4). Grease three 25cm round, loose-bottomed sandwich tins and line the bases with greaseproof paper.
2. Sift the flour into a bowl and add the butter, sugar, baking powder, eggs, lemon zest and juice. Mix together until smooth, fluffy and combined. If using an electric mixer, mix on a medium speed and do not over mix.
3. Divide two-thirds of the mixture between two of the tins. Reserve five raspberries for the decoration, then add the rest to the last third of the mixture and mix them through, crushing some of the raspberries as you go. Put this mixture into the third tin.
4. Place the three tins in the oven and bake for about 20 minutes until the sponges are risen and golden, and are slightly coming away from the edges (try not to open the oven before the 20 minutes are up). The raspberry sponge may need another five minutes. Remove the tins from the oven and turn out the sponges onto a wire rack. Leave to cool.

5. Whip the double cream thick enough to hold its shape – do not over-whip. Spoon the cream into a piping bag fitted with a round nozzle.

6. Reserve five strawberries for the decoration. Evenly slice the rest of the strawberries. Pipe a layer of double cream onto one of the plain sponges. Top with a layer of sliced strawberries. Spread a small amount of cream on the underside of the raspberry sponge, then place it gently on top of the strawberries.

7. Pipe a layer of double cream on the raspberry sponge and top this with the rest of the sliced strawberries. Spread a small amount of cream on the underside of the other plain sponge, then set this on top of the strawberries. Push down gently and check the layers are even.

8. Top with any leftover cream, the reserved strawberries, cut in half, and the reserved raspberries, then dust with icing sugar.

I still don't know how I won the Bake Off

Still pinching herself to check she's not dreaming, Candice Brown tells ELLA WALKER about life since

CANDICE BROWN won the BBC's Great British Bake Off last year, and now has her first book out. Let's just say, she's still trying to get her head around these really quite delicious facts.

"It's funny saying that... 'My book!'" she says, laughing.

Winning Bake Off would, you'd think, prepare a person for automatic cookbook domination and a tasty TV career. However, 32-year-old former PE teacher Candice is still utterly gobsmacked.

In fact, when she got the call confirming her book deal, she was wandering around Fortnum & Mason, staring at the meat in the butcher's section – and had to hang up to gaze, stunned, at the carcasses for a while longer, while the news sunk in.

Three manic months of writing, cooking, developing (and very little sleep) later, and the result is Comfort, a collection of Candice's tried-and-tested home classics: "The sort of things you want to stick your face in, grab a spoon, dive straight in and worry about burning your mouth later".

Squidged between snaps of her pug Dennis, the recipes are huge, decadent and sometimes borrowed treats – think an enormous, bubbling shepherd's pie, sausage rolls the size of bricks, and her beloved nan's boiled fruit cake.

Piecing recipes together was something of a challenge though, as London-born Candice admits she's "awful at writing them down".

"My boyfriend Liam would always say to me, 'Are you writing that down?' And I'd go, 'YES, YES!', knowing full well I'm not writing anything down at all, because I do what I call a 'guess-a-cake' – I just whack everything in and hope for the best.

"But then, if it works really well I'll be like, 'Argh, what did I put in that?!'"

And if it goes horribly wrong? "Don't worry about it," she says. "You either don't tell anyone and start again, or you turn it into something else and say it was supposed to look like that – that's how I get by a lot of the time."

Minor mishaps aside, Candice, who started baking before she was five, considers it "one of the only things that comes naturally to me", but still doesn't comprehend fully how she won Bake Off.

Candice Brown pictured at a food market in an image from her new cook book Comfort, below left

"I don't think I was the best baker in the tent," says the pub landlord's daughter, without artifice. "Some days I still don't know how I did what I did, because I hadn't been able to do it at home."

"Dad always said I was the same at university and school. I'd say, 'I can't do this, I can't do it, then the pressure would hit, and I'd get my head down and do it.'"

In the end, she beat finalists Andrew Smyth and Jane Beedle to the crown. "It's crazy, it's stressful, intense, it's tiring – but I'd do it a hundred times over," she says, recalling how demanding it was manning an oven while at the mercy of Mary Berry and Paul Hollywood's taste buds. "It's the best thing I've ever done."

And yes, she will be watching the new series on Channel 4. "It's always been my favourite programme – it's going to be so funny. Prue (Leith) is a culinary legend, then you've got Paul who'll just give that icy stare and wind everyone up."

"And you know what? The breaks are just going to give you time to go for a wee and get a cup of tea."

■ Comfort: Delicious Bakes And Family Treats by Candice Brown, photography Ellis Parrinder, is published in hardback by Ebury Press, priced £20.

MY BRAIN has engaged with fingers which have engaged with laptop to tell you what you need to know about this week.

I can tell you that Lidl has its latest Wine Cellar arriving in stores from July 27, and the other week I had a sneak preview.

It was a hot day and I headed first to the chilled water and not the wine; my friends would have dropped their glasses in shock.

The supermarket is once again championing Hungarian wines including a delightful (and unusual) Sparkling Tokaji (£6.99, 11.7% abv). Tokaji is famous for the most wonderful dessert wines and no surprise that this sparkling wine is a touch on the sweet side. It has notes of elderflower, hedgerows and spring flowers. I was won over.

RAISE A GLASS

WITH JANE CLARE

Zenit (£5.99, 12.5% abv) is a grape I've not heard of before. The Hungarian white is crisp, fruity, with floral, honeysuckle and citrus notes and a good acidity. Try it if you fancy something different.

A couple of reds took my fancy. Serabel Lirac (£6.99, 14% abv) from the Rhone is a blend of grenache (60%) with syrah and mourvedre on the coat tails. I wrote violets – big fruit – subtle wood – snapped twigs.

Then Dornfelder (£4.99,

12.5% abv) from Germany had a few people chatting, not least because it is under a fiver for a good dollop of jammy fruit. It's a ruby red wine with bold blackberries and a hint of spice. It's good chilled I was told, in these summery days.

Spatburgunder Rose (£5.49, 11% abv) is a German pink created mostly from the spatburgunder grape which you would know as pinot noir. It is uncomplicated, lightly fruity, soft, and bang on the money. The Wine Cellar range is available in store while stocks last.

■ Also in my glass... Talking about pinks here's a trio of summery ones for you.

Pezat Rosé 2016 Bordeaux (£9.95, 13% abv, www.FromVineyardsDirect.com) is exactly what it says on the vin, a rosé from Bordeaux. It has been created in Saint-Émilion using a classic Bordeaux blend of cabernet franc (60%) cabernet sauvignon (30%) and merlot. It has red berry and strawberry aromas, a hint of pear and some candied fruit and there's a dash of spice in the mouth.

I loved Chapel Down English Rosé 2016 (RRP £10.99, 12.5% abv, stockists include Waitrose, Sainsbury's, Majestic, chapeldown.com), a blend of eight grape varieties grown in Kent, Sussex and Essex, with pinot noir taking the leading role. It has aromas of spring blossom, redcurrants and strawberries, and to taste a mouthwatering acidity is cushioned by those same fruit notes with a hint of citrus.

As for Torres Viña Sol Rosé 2016 (RRP £7, 13% abv, from Asda, Waitrose, Nisa, Morrisons), I'm a fan of its sister aromatic white, Torres Viña Sol, so was keen to see if I'd like this Spanish pink. It is a blend of garnacha and cariñena, with aromas of cherry, redcurrant, and strawberry. To taste, those same fruits shine through, but I felt it was a bit watery on the finish. Pleasant enough though.

YOU can't beat a good, old-fashioned sausage roll. These ones though, take things to a whole new level.

Candice says this is "the one recipe that's guaranteed to cause arguments within my family", because "they are requested frequently and devoured within seconds!"

Try them on your own clan...

INGREDIENTS

For the pastry: 150g unsalted butter, frozen; 110g strong white bread flour; 110g plain flour, plus extra for dusting; 2tsp dried sage; 4-5tbsp ice-cold water; 1 beaten egg, for glazing; Sesame and poppy seeds, for sprinkling; Salt and pepper

For the filling: 400g good-quality pork sausagemeat; 100g smoked streaky bacon, finely chopped; 1tbsp finely chopped fresh sage; ½tsp dried thyme; 2 shallots, finely chopped; ½tsp smoked paprika; 100g chestnut mushrooms, finely chopped; 1tsp finely chopped garlic (jarred or fresh); 1tsp finely chopped red chilli (jarred or fresh); 1tsp Worcestershire sauce; 150g good-quality black pudding; Salt and freshly ground black pepper

METHOD

1. First make the pastry. Coarsely grate the butter onto a cold plate (do not handle the grated butter). Return to the freezer or put into the fridge to keep cold.

2. Sift both types of flour into a large bowl and mix in the dried sage, a pinch of salt and some pepper. Without handling the butter, drop it into the flour mix and, using a blunt knife, mix the grated butter into the flour to coat it all evenly. Sprinkle over two tablespoons of ice-cold water and mix in with the knife, then gradually add a further two to three tablespoons of water until the mix starts to come together.

3. Finish mixing to a pastry dough with your hands but do not handle the pastry too much. If you need more water, add it a couple of drops at a time. The pastry should leave the sides of the bowl clean.

4. Flatten pastry into a square shape and wrap it in cling film. Leave to rest in the fridge for 30-45 minutes.

5. Meanwhile, make the filling. Put all of the filling ingredients, except the black pudding, into a large bowl, with some salt and pepper. Mix with a large spoon – then I like to get my hands in and squish it all together. Fry off a small piece of the filling in a pan to check seasoning. Add more to taste. Cover and set aside.

6. Remove the black outer coating from the black pudding and cut the pudding into 1cm sticks. Set the chilled pastry on a lightly floured surface and roll out into a 60 x 30cm rectangle that's about 3mm thick.

7. Turn the pastry as you roll to stop it from springing back. Again, try not to handle the pastry too much.

8. Trim the edges of the pastry rectangle so they are straight and neat. Spoon the sausagemeat filling into the centre of the pastry and squeeze it together to make a sausage shape that runs across the pastry rectangle, parallel to the 30cm sides (I find flouring your hands helps to do this). Push the sticks of black pudding into the filling in straight lines from end to end.

9. With cold, floured hands, lift one 30cm side of the pastry up to the middle over the sausage filling and brush the outside edge with beaten egg (or milk). Lift the opposite side of the pastry up to slightly overlap and gently squeeze the edges together to create a sealed join of pastry. Roll the whole thing over so the join is on the bottom. Lift on to a tray and place in the freezer to chill for 10 minutes.

10. Remove from the freezer and, using a sharp knife, cut across into 5cm pieces. Arrange with the join underneath, on a greased baking sheet lined with greaseproof paper. Return to the freezer and preheat the oven to 180°C fan (200°C/400°F/Gas Mark 6).

11. Glaze the pastry with beaten egg (or milk) and snip a small 'V' on top of each roll. Bake for 20-30 minutes until the pastry is golden brown and the sausage filling is cooked and no longer pink.

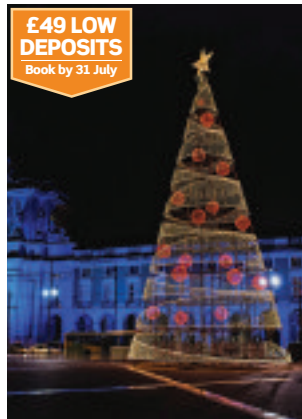

12. Remove from the oven and lift the sausage rolls from the baking sheet on to a wire rack to cool.

STYLE GUIDE

Is it time to step up your shoe game?

KATIE WRIGHT on the season's hot footwear trends

STUCK in a wardrobe rut? Take the shortcut to style with a pair (or three) of the season's chicest kicks. From comfy flats for day to statement-making high heels, these are the shoes to choose this summer...

FRILLED SANDALS

FRILLY, but not too fussy – that's the message right now. So think stilettos in punchy hues or metallics, paired with tough-girl ripped jeans and the latest Nineties revival, the 'going out top'. Extra points if you can work a bit of tulle or velvet into the mix.

V by Very Gisele asymmetric frill heeled pink sandals £32, Very.co.uk

SPORTY SANDALS

LIKE the pool sliders trend but want a bit of lift? Then these chunky sandals are for you. Cool and comfy but not so massive they veer into Spice Girls territory, they'll become your holiday staples.

Dune Kassius Silver Sandals £80, dunelondon.com

Jones Bootmaker Gemini white trainers £47

M&S Collection lace-up star trainers with insolia flex £29.50

NEXT-LEVEL TRAINERS

THE humble white trainer gets a makeover this summer with floral prints, embroidery and all kinds of embellishment turning this staple from boring to bling.

A pair of pimped-up kicks updates a simple jeans and bardot top combo, or punctuates an all-black-everything ensemble.

Hobbs Ophelia gold mules £65 (reduced from £149), hobbs.co.uk

FAIRYTALE HEELS

MINIMALIST mules, move over – right now it's all about ornate princess shoes with opulent detailing. Basically, if they look like they could have fallen off Cinderella's foot at midnight, you're on the right track.

You'd needn't reserve these beauts for balls, however. Wear metallic mules with a pleated midi skirt and cropped tee for daytime princess vibes.

Dune Delights Champagne mules £95, dunelondon.com

BACK DETAILING

WHILE mules may be having a moment, elsewhere embellishment is focused firmly on the backs of shoes, with frills and florals making a strong case for court shoes and strappy sandals. Liven up a much-loved LBD with a pair of these statement stilettos.

Office Hibiscus silver sandals with cherries £60, office.co.uk

Topshop Rosebud applique stiletto sandals £46, topshop.com

Wordsquare

Give yourself ten minutes to find as many words as possible using the letters in the grid. Each word must use the central letter and at least 3 others, and letters may be used only once. You cannot use plurals, foreign words or proper nouns, but verb forms ending in 's' are permitted. There is one 9-letter word to be found.

How you rate:

15 words - average; 20 words - good; 25 words - very good; 30 or more - excellent.

HARLOW HOME IS A TREAT INSIDE AND OUT

Belvoir are delighted to offer for Sale this three bedroom end of terrace in the private development of Glan Avon Mews, Harlow

This three-bedroom Harlow house is as pretty inside as it looks from the outside. Estate agent Belvoir is selling the home in the quiet Glan Avon Mews for £325,000 and has put it forward as their property of the week.

Based off Potter Street, the house is near local shops and around one mile from the town centre.

The white wooden panelled front makes the property an immediately appealing sight at the end of a small terrace.

Inside the ceramic tiled floor gives a pleasant introduction and leads into a well-decorated lounge.

The kitchen and dining area are equipped with a high-spec oven and hob with plenty of storage space and a door to the enclosed garden which features a shed and decked area.

The largest bedroom has a built in en suite, while the second and third bedrooms are served by a well-equipped family bathroom.

Outside there is a small garden and a parking space for one car.

The location is 1.9 miles from Harlow Mill station, making it an option for rail commuters in London.

Alternatively Harlow Town and Sawbridgeworth stations are two and four miles away respectively.

For more details call Belvoir on 01279 426888.

PUT DOWN ROOTS AT HOUSE WITH ORCHARD

If you're looking for a beautiful family home which benefits from many quaint features of its 1900's origin then this is the property for you. The Briars, on Main Road, Boreham, offers five bedrooms spread across two floors, contains an elegant oak kitchen and breakfast room, as well as three modern decorated bathrooms.

The red brick construction, which has tall ceilings and several classic fireplaces, includes a luxurious master bedroom with en-suite and several spacious reception rooms.

To the side of the home there is a comfortable sitting room with a gorgeous Victorian fireplace and double doors opening onto the veranda and surrounding grounds.

Of particular note is the kitchen, fitted with a comprehensive range of oak eye level storage units with dark work surfaces, with modern appliances and side utility room.

The master bedroom is positioned at the front of the property on the first floor, with its spacious en suite and built in storage units.

The property also boasts a play room, rear garden room with French doors allowing for plenty of sunlight, a three-piece shower room and northern dining room.

All the rooms have a different view of the property's wonderful garden space which totals a whopping 1.7 acres of lush greenery.

The Briars is set back from the road, allowing the opportunity for your visitors to be wowed by the sweeping driveway and an elegant raised veranda to the side of the house, with a view of the lawn.

The rear garden also holds a large selection of plants and trees including oak, maple and even apple and plum fruit trees, which surrounds the small orchard at the end.

This can all be seen by the entertainment and relaxation area of the paved terrace at the back of the property, with beautiful clematis flowers growing around the timber pergola.

Potential also sprouts in the small brick outbuilding to the side of the country home, the perfect size to be transformed into a studio room after a little touch of TLC.

Located on the fringes of the semi-rural village of Boreham, the property is only 3.7 miles outside of Chelmsford city centre and is accessible by Hatfield Peverel train station and the A12.

As well as the excellent road and rail connections into London, this home offers the perfect mix of country and city.

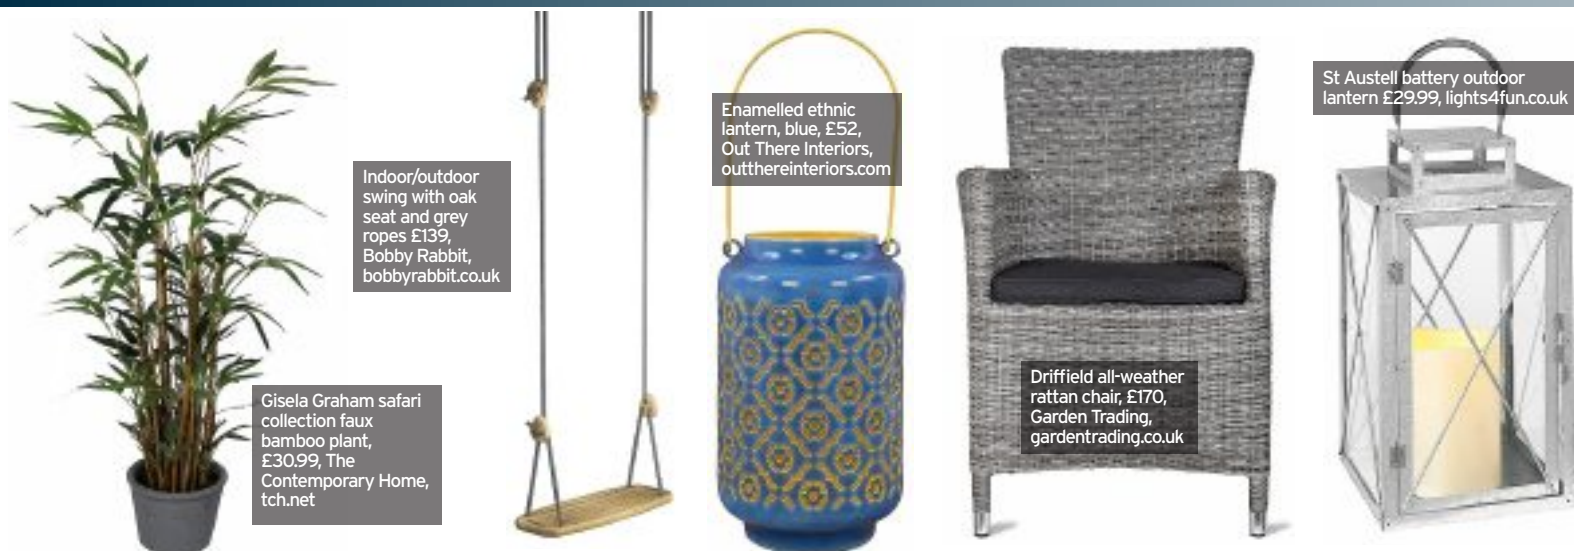

The village of Boreham offers a parish church, some public footpaths through the beautiful farmland and along the waterside, a doctor's surgery and a number of local shops and services. There is also choice of both state and private schooling nearby, including the local primary school.

The Briars is on the market through Fenn Wright for £900,000. To find out more or book a viewing, call Fenn Wright on 01245 292100.

CREATE YOUR OWN SUNNY SANCTUARY

Make the warmer weeks even more special, outdoors and in, with these fun ideas from GABRIELLE FAGAN

Going away on holiday is lovely, but there's nothing nicer than enjoying sunny days at home (no packing, flight delays or crowds to contend with).

So why not turn your home into its own super-summer destination by creating a desert-inspired setting, perhaps even an outdoor cinema, beautiful balcony, and children's play area?

Here's how to do it...

HOTHOUSE STYLE

Even if the weather's changeable, you can turn up the heat at home with decor inspired by the desert and tropical zones.

"I am obsessed with cacti, so I jumped at the chance of creating my own collection," says designer, Abigail Ahern (abigailahern.com).

"My new botanicals range at Debenhams is desert-inspired and I've been playing with scale, which is one of my trademarks, and the result is these fabulous jumbo-sized faux cacti. I have them everywhere in my London home, because they really add instant 'wow' factor and are a great way to add colour, intrigue and texture to rooms."

TIP: An exotic leaves mural, from £26 per square metre, Wallsauce (wallsauce.com), could be the perfect sultry backdrop for a room.

MOVIE ZONE

Bring Hollywood into the garden with your own outdoor movie theatre...

"The simple pleasures of entertaining family and friends on a summer evening doesn't need to be complicated or expensive to be truly epic," says Marianne Shillingford, creative director at Cuprinol (cuprinol.co.uk).

"By day, a fence is just a fence, but by night, with the addition of a plain white sheet, it can transform into a cinema screen. Add a string of lights, a wooden pallet or two, some old cane furniture, throw a few rugs down, and you can view in style."

TIP: Ramp up the 'big screen' effect with an American Originals Popcorn Maker, £19.99, Argos (argos.co.uk), and pin up a couple of movie posters.

BALCONY BOOST

Just a few stylish additions can transform even a tiny patio or balcony into an outdoor haven...

"There's a knack to al fresco living when space is limited and you're confined to a balcony – all it takes is a little creativity," says Claudia Roberts, co-owner of new furnishings and fashion brand Pignut (pignut.co.uk).

"Comfort is key. A fleece-back floor blanket will provide extra padding, as will floor cushions – think 'hygge' for the great outdoors.

"Choose box cushions with handles, oil-coated tablecloths, and fake it with fabrics – introduce colour and even wildlife with animal or bird prints, and gaily patterned bunting."

TIP: Liven up a balcony wall or railings with hanging pots and window boxes. Crocus (crocus.co.uk) has a brilliant selection.

Balcony deckchair £185, and footstool £45, both available from Denys and Fielding, denysandfielding.co.uk

Kingfisher cushion £36.95, Pignut, pignut.co.uk

Jacky golden yellow garden floor cushion £35, Ragged Rose, raggedrose.com

PLAY AND DISPLAY

Create a special corner for children to encourage their imaginations.

"A family garden should be fun, versatile, and practical and kids love a corner in it that they can make their own," says Marianne Shillingford.

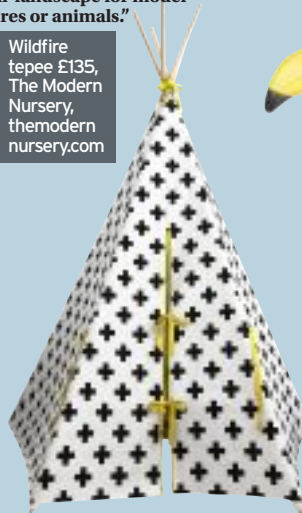

"This can also be a brilliant way to brighten up a neglected area.

Transform a fence into a sunny-skies outlook by using Cuprinol's Misty Lake and then, when dry, create the clouds. With chalk, draw a cloud outline onto a piece of card then cut out to create a template. Position your template on the fence and draw around it with chalk. Fill in the cloud shapes with a small paint brush and White Daisy paint. You will need two coats.

"Get a carpenter to fit a bench seat or use an old toy chest or wooden boxes."

TIP: Fill a couple of small crates with sand and tiny plants, which can be a mini-landscape for model figures or animals."

LA HOUSE WITH A STAR-STUDDED PAST

If only walls had ears then 100 Delfern Drive would certainly have a story or two to tell. This stunning Los Angeles mansion has been home to a catalogue of legendary Hollywood stars over the years including Audrey Hepburn, who lived here with her first husband, the actor Mel Ferrer.

After meeting at a cocktail party hosted by Audrey's Roman Holiday co-star Gregory Peck, the pair married in 1954 and moved into the house in 1960, the same year their son Sean was born.

But the glamorous property has also been home to Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow, Katherine Hepburn, David Niven and Eva Gabor.

During Sinatra's tenure at the mansion, which is situated in the Holmby Hills area, his social set were known as 'The Holmby Hills Rat Pack' because of the frequency of the parties held at the house.

Today, the 7,000sqft property has six bedrooms, four bathrooms, a swimming pool and a tennis court, all set within more than an acre of land.

There's also plenty of room for staff - vital for any self-respecting Hollywood star - with an additional guest house and staff apartment on site.

Also known as The Gabor Estate, 100 Delfern Drive is for sale at $13.995m through agent Jade Mills, who says: "The home offers a stately presence and exquisite kerb appeal with double iron gates leading onto a large brick motor court and elegant facade."

PENTHOUSE PERFECTION

If you had to choose a handful of films that summed up the 1980s then 9½ Weeks, starring Mickey Rourke and Kim Basinger, should be on your list. Its heady mix of materialism and sex made it a product of its time; the US - like the UK - was revelling in the success of a booming economy and excess was everything.

The film was the decade's answer to Fifty Shades of Grey and Rourke's sadomasochistic character is coincidentally called John Gray.

9½ Weeks - whose title refers to the length of the characters' affair - split opinion. Regarded by some as soft porn with good acting, others thought it was a defining moment in the careers of Rourke and Basinger despite the dubious script.

To put the icing on its 1980s credentials, the single that promoted the film - called I Do What I Do - was penned by Duran Duran bassist John Taylor.

The film, which was released in 1986, bombed in the US but proved popular in Europe and particularly the UK and went on to gross $100m worldwide.

If you've seen 9½ Weeks then you'll

Eric Clapton's rural retreat in the French countryside has been on the market for some time now despite its connections to the Slow Hand guitarist.

The 72-year-old's Provence farmhouse recently had €1m knocked off its asking price, and Eric is hoping for a sale at the new price of €2.25m (£1.92m).

The property first went on the market in November 2015 and is in the sleepy but fashionable village of Nans Les Pins approximately 45km north-east of Marseilles.

Described by its agent, Home Hunts, as 'priced to sell', the stone property has nine bathrooms, a 10-acre garden, tennis court, swimming pool, boules pitch and a cinema room. There's also a two-bedroom annexe.

PROVENCE PRICE-CUT

The farmhouse, above, owned by Eric Clapton, top right

Famed for his extraordinary guitar playing and hits such as Tears in Heaven and Wonderful Tonight, Eric bought the property during the early Noughties as a bolt hole for him and his wife Melia to escape the rigours of fame and touring.

Although large, La Faissinette is noticeably un-bling for a rock star of his stature and Eric said in an interview that "once you get through those gates, it is like entering an oasis of calm - it is a perfect place to relax and unwind in complete privacy".

But when it first went on the market, he said his family no longer had the time to appreciate it, and that it was time to sell.

QUICKSTEP ON THE LADDER...

Kevin Clifton is the only professional dancer on Strictly Come Dancing to have competed in four consecutive finals - with partners Susanna Reid, Frankie Bridge, Kellie Bright and Louise Redknapp. But what few people realise is that Kevin has a second career as a property investor.

He says it started a few years ago when he noticed his mate and fellow dancer Tommy Franzen flicking through property brochures.

"Tommy said he was managing his property portfolio, and I was amazed as dancers are not wealthy and can't usually afford such things," he says.

A few years later he decided to buy two new-build apartments in Manchester but when he couldn't get a mortgage, turned to Rob Moore of Progressive Property to sort it out.

One of Kevin Clifton's properties in Scotland

Kevin took a Progressive Property course and now works with Rob in a partnership, and invests in properties with Tommy who's helped him buy three more in Scotland.

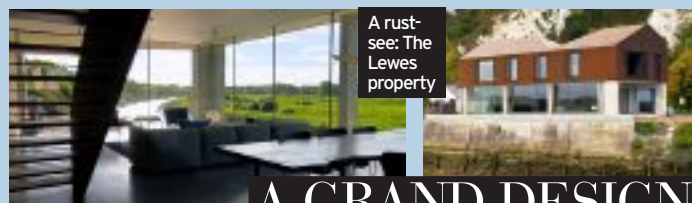

"A lot of dancers are attracted to property investment because you could have an accident at any time and your career would be over," he says. "Also, I want to become a choreographer and set up a dance school with my wife Karen, and those projects require me to have a back-up income.

Kevin with Louise Redknapp on Strictly Come Dancing

"I don't want to be 'that bloke who used to do Strictly who's now in the jungle' but have the opportunity to create my own work."

A rust-see: The Lewes property

A GRAND DESIGN

Do you remember the Grand Designs house built perilously close to a river that presenter Kevin McCloud called a 'rusty steel box'?

It was a five-bedroom uber-modern house made of glass and weathered steel built on the banks of the Ouse, just outside the county town of Lewes in East Sussex. It was built at a cost of £1.05m by a London media company executive and his lawyer wife in less than a year and completed in September 2015.

During filming the couple, Stephen Yeomans and Anita Findlay, said it would probably be their forever home, but the build had its challenges.

The plot was just 11m wide, requiring dozens of piles to be driven into the banking, and locals didn't share their taste in design.

The site, which is 20ft above the river, used to be a loading area for material mined from a nearby quarry to be shipped down river, and Anita told Kevin that she wanted the house to reflect this.

But the house, which offers extraordinary views hasn't turned out to be the couple's permanent place after all.

It's for sale with The Modern Agent (020 3795 5920) for £1.95m.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

Perfect 10 for summer

Inject some colour into your garden...

Designing gardens is a job I love – choosing the plants and painting colourful pictures with them. Then, after they are planted, I like to drop in to check up on progress and see how the plot is welding together every six months or so.

This year, I have had a lovely experience of minding a garden that I created. It is in a shopping centre in Dundrum, south of Dublin, and it's the rebuilding of the Harrods British Eccentric Garden displayed at the Chelsea Flower Show last year.

Since May, the blooms and blossoms have been non-stop. But I know we are beginning to come into trickier times in mid-to-late summer when the first enthusiastic flush of late spring and early summer flowers have faded. So I've paid particular attention to what will look good now.

These are the flowers I hope will see this particular joyous plot continue its performance right through to September. They're my top 10 for late summer colour and any one of them might be perfect for your plot.

My site is open and sunny with a free draining soil, but one with plenty of humus material which will help retain water around them. So for the bright spots in your plot, keep the summer going with some of these...

1 Hydrangea 'Annabelle'

This is a posh plant much in vogue at the moment. It has beautiful white globes of flowers in July, which will gently fade to green in early autumn.

Like other hydrangeas, it doesn't like to dry out so keep in moist, well drained soil. No need to cut back hard in spring – a light prune will do.

2 Helium 'Short 'n' Sassy'

My next choice is this cheerful daisy which has bright orange and gold petals surrounding a chocolate-brown cone and is ideal for smaller gardens due to its compact shape.

It's a plant with straightforward requirements – it likes to be in a bright

Credit: www.brooksidenursery.co.uk and sunny position in good, well-enriched soil that doesn't dry out. Divide in spring to increase.

3 Verbena 'Hurricane Pink'

Tender bedding plants are great fillers at this time of year, brightening up gaps in the borders or rejuvenating tired pots and containers.

This compact little verbenas is full of frilly pink and white fun and will keep going for the rest of the summer, so long you keep deadheading.

4 Osteospermum 'Voltage Yellow'

African daisies are long flowering so this blast of yellow should brighten up your garden until autumn.

5 Eryngium

Also known as sea holly, these come in wonderful shades of blues

Credit: www.jparkers.co.uk and intense violets. It's an easy care perennial that enjoys full sunshine and well-drained soil.

It's a strong-shaped plant for your border and its flowers, which can also be dried very well, are long lasting. Very popular with butterflies and bees too.

6 Lythrum 'Dropmore Purple'

This is a cultivar of our native purple loosestrife which flowers from summer to autumn.

If you're out walking, you may notice it in damp areas such as boggy meadows or beside streams.

The tall spikes of pinkish purple flowers are nectar-rich and attract bees and butterflies.

Although it prefers dampness in the wild, it will do fine in your garden so long as the soil doesn't dry out.

Credit: www.jerseyplantsdirect.com

Credit: www.hairypotplants.co.uk burgundy tones of Red Velvet.

Loves full sunshine and looks striking dotted through a border.

9 Sollya heterophylla

Also known as bluebell creeper, Sollya is a pretty evergreen twining climber covered in delightful bluebell-shaped flowers in July.

It's somewhat frost tender so only suitable outdoors in coastal or milder areas but it makes a lovely summer conservatory plant as well.

10 Veronicastrum 'Fascination'

Elegant upright perennial with dense, slender, branched spikes of small light violet-blue flowers – like delicate mauve wands – which flower in summer through to early autumn.

Plant in sun or partial shade in moist but well-drained soil.

Don't delay with the deadheading

■ Deadhead roses to tidy up and encourage new flowers.

■ In the veg garden, as well as harvesting, you can be sowing seeds – lettuce, beetroot, Swiss chard, spring onions, swede and spring cabbage. Feed crops with liquid fertiliser.

■ Keep an eye out for tomato and potato blight.

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

■ Aerate your compost heap by turning it over. If it seems too dry, add some water. Lemon trees and other citrus fruit trees need feeding throughout the summer.

■ Make a note of what's working in the garden and what could be changed for next year.

■ Strawberry plants which are sending out runners can be pegged down to create new plants for next year if your current plants are ageing. Otherwise remove the runners.

■ Make sure to leave time to enjoy your outdoor space and admire your efforts!

As well as harvesting vegetables, you can also be sowing seeds

ASK DIARMUID

Q I have freesia bulbs and every year I have removed the bulbs from the pots and, after drying them off, put them in paper bags in the airing cupboard.

In February I repot them and I have had lovely flowers every summer. I have also increased my stock, with all the "baby" bulbs flowering eventually.

What I would like to know is do I really have to do this every year?

Can I leave the bulbs in my pots or do they have to be taken up? It is quite a performance every year to take them all up.

White freesias

Judith Sanderson

A I'm impressed! That's a mini masterclass in how to look after your freesias perfectly.

And that's why you get good results. Freesias are originally from South Africa and are frost tender so can only be left outdoors in milder areas that don't get hard frosts.

Drying out the bulbs and keeping them warm on a windowsill or in an airing cupboard mimics the South African summer, so they perform as they would do in their native situation.

You could experiment this winter with one or two pots - maybe cover them with some fleece, move to a sheltered area or greenhouse and see how they compare next year.

PLANT OF THE WEEK

KNAUTIA MACEDONICA 'THUNDER AND LIGHTNING'

Knaulia is a long-flowering summer perennial. It's in bloom now and should be until September, with deep crimson pin-cushion flowers, a bit like scabious, at the end of a network of stems.

It likes a sunny, well-drained soil and will attract bees and butterflies to your garden.

A lovely cottage garden plant, 'Thunder and Lightning' has a creamy variegation to its leaves.

Style and economy for the young ones

TESTED SEAT Ibiza XCELLENCE

By Steve Orme

Ministry of Sound announcements may have been in every fly-posting hotspot and a positively Iberian blast of hot air making itself felt from the south but this was not Barcelona.

It was, however, for one night only Ibiza.

Fitting that Liverpool, a city with recent history firmly rooted in youth culture, should be the jump-off point for SEAT's young, fresh and crisply designed Ibiza hatchback, not just a style icon but absolute bargain and economical to boot.

This is the fifth generation of Ibiza and you would be better not thinking back to the first. There is no comparison.

In its lifetime the supermini has sold over five million units and this latest version seeks to move the car forward in terms of safety, performance and technology.

Hollow words or real confidence? Well SEAT aims to produce the best small car in Europe based on the Volkswagen Group MQB common platform.

So it's a spin off from Wolfsburg's back-to-back production lines?

Hardly.

SEAT is keen to point out that the Ibiza is 100 per cent designed and developed in Barcelona.

The look is sculpted and an evolution of the new Leon's styling. It belies the idea that a small family five-door cannot be based on Ibiza.

The Ibiza is wider and longer on the new platform, however its interior is significantly roomier and boot space, important for young growing families, increases by 63 litres to 355.

That's a big leap.

Technology is upped in a world where connectivity is king. There is a wireless phone charger, Front collision assist, adaptive cruise and rear view camera.

But come on, get with the important stuff; it has a Beats audio system available

At launch the UK range will have four trim levels, S, SE, FR plus a new XCELLENCE version.

Prices start at £13,130 and top out at £17,310 for the 96bhp one-litre TSI XCELLENCE. More expensive FR TSI DSG and Evo models follow.

Inside the improvements bring greater elegance and an improved sense of space, controls and instruments have been lifted to the highest point possible keeping eyes fixed on the road but the start button to the left of the gear change, as with Leon and Ateca is not the most logical siting.

First impressions are that it is a good place to sit and finishes is good quality.

Equipment starts from a strong position, S trim has halogen and daytime running lights, a five-inch mono touchscreen, all the connections and air conditioning alongside a comprehensive passive safety package.

SE adds a coloured screen, some leather trim and repeater controls.

Up at FR there are trim enhancements, tinted windows, DAB radio and smartphone app connections.

There are four selectable drive settings, sports seats, ambient lighting, cruise control and a tiredness recognition system.

XCELLENCE adds full leather, rear camera, parking sensors, 16-inch alloys and keyless entry.

Power comes via three one-litre petrol engines, 73bhp, 93 and 103 making things nice and simple. Later this year the Evo will land with a 1.5-litre engine and 148bhp

Diesel versions will follow.

Part of the route took in bits of the Evo Triangle in north Wales which was rather like entering a spritely gymkhana pony at Epsom.

But it did serve to prove that pushed hard this is a fun car to drive and with the one-litre TSI capable of the 62mph sprint in 9.3 seconds a worthwhile demonstration off what to expect from the Evo itself.

Consumption is excellent, 60mpg at the best end and 58mpg at worst.

Handling is tight and steering direct while ride quality is exceptionally smooth on the back roads.

A rush job back to base via motorway was painless.

Ibiza has the youngest customer base of any supermini, the technology package demonstrates that, the outgoing model was the first of offer seamless smartphone connectivity.

It is a car for those with a natty line in espadrilles and tight jeans.

And a good grasp of modern economic reality.

Beane River View is a small care home set in idyllic riverside grounds, in the Port Vale area of Hertford. It's a peaceful setting that attracts a lot of wildlife, yet only a short walk to the shops and local bus and rail services.

Our residents, some of whom live with dementia, are provided with exceptional facilities including en-suite bedrooms, on-site bar/café, residents' kitchenette and cosy communal areas. The home is split into three small units which helps to create a homely atmosphere, and enables our team to really get to know and understand the people they are caring for.

Our dedicated and happy team provides exceptional care, together with lots of activities for residents to enjoy, including tranquil walks along the riverside, regular day trips and entertainment.

Night Care Workers

£7.83 rising to £8.65 per hour plus Weekend & Bank Holiday enhancements Job ref: 393
 Various hours
 Based in Port Vale, Hertford

Helping with everything from bathing to the preparation of snacks, you will use your enthusiasm and team skills to maintain a warm and caring atmosphere for all our residents. No experience is necessary. As long as you have a passion for working with older people and good communication skills, our first-class training will do the rest.

For more information and to apply, please visit our website www.quantumcarejobs.co.uk or call in and pick up an application form from Beane River View, Port Vale, Hertford SG14 3UD. Alternatively, call 01707 368234.

Who murdered Evelyn Foster?

In 1931, off a remote Northumberland road, flames rose up into the night. Beyond anyone's help, Evelyn Foster lay near her burning car – herself engulfed in flames. With her last breath she described her assailant: a mysterious man with a bowler hat.

Nearly 90 years after her murder the case remained unsolved. With unprecedented access to the police files has crime writer, Diane Janes, finally tracked the killer down?

True Crime.
A cold case unsolved for nearly 100 years.
Until now.

My name is Bella Wright.

In 1919 I was found dead at the side of the road alongside my bicycle in a country lane in Leicestershire.

The Green Bicycle Mystery reveals new evidence for the first time. But does it solve the case or deepen the mystery?
You decide.

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20
Don't allow the problems in your life to stew and fester. Instead, work on a plan to deal with them head on. Your ruling planet Mars can and will give you all the confidence you need from Tuesday, so make your plans accordingly. A younger person needs your support, and it's vital that you are honest in your opinions with them. Ring now for a peak at what your destiny holds.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 300 65p PER MINUTE

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21
Someone who used to be a help is now becoming more of a hindrance. Ask yourself if their influence in your life makes you more unhappy than happy and you will soon get your answer as to whether you distance yourself or not. A touch of fame or even media links beckon in business. Embrace and enjoy. Ring now to hear how major career changes are not out of the question this year.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 301 65p PER MINUTE

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21
Romance is well starred and you start to be more honest about what you do and do not want from your personal life. You thought you were alone, but this week you realise that you are not. You open up to those who want to give you support and it makes your life a better place to be. Ring now to hear why you can and should put down money for future travel plans.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 302 65p PER MINUTE

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22
Your element of water is making it difficult for you not to read between the lines of what others say. I understand why you are nervous, but try not to blame new faces for the mistakes which those in your past made. It will take the fun out of what should be a really exciting time if you do. Ring to hear how animals could be the key to some of your most interesting introductions this month.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 303 65p PER MINUTE

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23
You enter a really dramatic phase of your life. It should not worry or scare you, but only excite you. Your sign is great at riding the wave of change and this week you get the chance to choose your path without the emotional weight of others upon you. Telling tales that those you work with will come back on you. Ring now to hear why I know they will expose themselves before you have to.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 304 65p PER MINUTE

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22
If only you would tell it as it is instead of trying to say things to please others, then we would all be a lot happier. Saturn helps you to build the base which was lacking at the beginning of the year and you start to see with clarity who is good for your life and who has been dragging you down. Ring now to hear why you can and should lay down plans with the new faces you meet recently.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 305 65p PER MINUTE

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23
If you continue to try to guess the next move of your close ones, then you are going to end up red faced and embarrassed. You have been focusing on the negative when you should be focusing on the positive. Be the best version of you Libra and if that means saying goodbye to the person who brought you down, then so be it. Ring now to hear why I know you can make the impossible possible.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 306 65p PER MINUTE

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21
The ideas you are having at this time are the basis for a really exciting future. You start to realise that you don't have to keep trying to please others, but that if you are happy, then others will be too. Visiting new places gives you fresh inspiration and ideas for the future, so make sure you accept. Ring now to hear why it's worth using old skills to gain the funds for new ideas. Ring now for insight.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 307 65p PER MINUTE

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20
Those you meet put the sparkle back into your life and you begin to look forward to the future instead of only focusing on the past. Lending money may not be the good idea it seems, as it is unlikely to be paid back when others say. Venus makes you more flirtatious this week, but bear in mind that your actions are unlikely to stay private. Ring now so we can talk relationship decisions.

Essex County Council

(Various Roads, Harlow District)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic & Clearway) (No.6)
Order 2017

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order:

1. To temporarily close the various lengths of road in the Harlow District as specified in Schedule 1.
2. A temporary 'No Stopping' restriction will be introduced on both sides of carriageway on the above lengths of roads for the duration of the closure to facilitate the works. Signs will be installed indicating when the No Stopping restriction will be in force.

"The District of Harlow (On Street) (Waiting, Loading and Parking) (Consolidation) Order 2011" will be temporarily amended to include the temporary 'No Stopping at Any Time' restriction and suspend any existing parking and waiting restrictions on the above lengths of roads only. All other restrictions and exemptions contained in the aforementioned Order and Amendments to that Order shall remain in force.

The works being undertaken will take place within an 18-month period from 01/08/2017 exact dates will be specified on <http://roadworks.org/>. The roads will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631.

The Order will come into effect on 01/08/2017 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

Chiassaro finally celebrates with World Championships bronze

IT was a case of fourth time lucky for Harlow wheelchair racer Richard Chiassaro, as he picked up his first global medal, winning bronze at the World Para Athletics Championships in London.

Following a hectic week in which he had raced eight times in numerous heats and finals, Chiassaro, who is coached by Jenni Banks, finally came good as he pushed to a brilliant bronze in the T54 400m final.

Having come close to the podium with fourth in the 200m final, crashed out in the 800m, and finished down the field in the 1500m, Chiassaro, competing in what he describes as his favourite event, pushed a great opening 300m to come off the final bend still well in contention.

As the field gained on the finish line, and with Tunisian Gharbi pushing ahead for gold in a championship record, Chiassaro pulled out all the stops and in a frantic finish edged ahead of Marcel Hug for third place in the tightest of finishes.

In fact it was so close, a tenth of a second, that the 35-year-old was unaware he had claimed bronze in last Thursday's race.

Chiassaro said: "I've had a bit of an up and down week and I think a lot of people were rooting for me to do well.

"I didn't know I'd medalled until the crowd were cheering. "What was really great was that my family were here to see it.

"My girlfriend and my six-year-old son [Leo] have been here every day and he was standing up and cheering me. That was great.

"I didn't know how close it was.

"I think they said there was a tenth of a second between me and silver, and to beat Marcel, who is such a great pusher and so consistent – it's incredible.

"I made four finals, and in Rio I only made one, so to do that was a big thing for me, and to come away with a medal was a bonus.

"If I hadn't crashed then I would have probably medalled in that race as well."

Athletes race in London

HARLOW Running Club had three members competing in the London Triathlon, the world's largest, consisting of a 1.5k open water swim, 50k bike ride and a 10k run.

On the Westminster route on Sunday, Andrew Kitson finished in 125th place out of 2356 finishers in a personal best time for the distance of 2hr 18min 14sec.

He was followed by Louise Kedge, 1397th in 2:48:49, a PB by more than 14 minutes.

On Saturday on the Leamouth route, Paul Lee finished in 217th out of 1294 in 2:36:47.

At the Harlow parkrun 5k, Terry Ridge finished in 12th out of 189 in 22:05. Martin Westley was 15th in 22:24 while Catherine Ridge finished 20th and first female in 23:03.

Harlow competed in the Midweek League Road Race Mob Match at Welwyn Garden City in a 10k race involving runners from all three divisions of the league.

After the race there was a Midweek League presentation ceremony in which Harlow picked up eight individual Division Two series awards.

In the Ladies section Carinne Jay and Debbie Barry were the trophy winners in the Vet 45 and Vet 55 categories respectively, while Sharon Wright and Julia Gardiner were runners up in the senior and Vet 35 categories respectively.

In the men's section Alan Broughton and John Tennant were runners-up in the Vet 50 and Vet 60 categories, while Rob Lowe and Graham Saville came third in the Vet 40 and Vet 50 categories respectively.

On the night the men finished in seventh place out of 18 teams, the ladies were ninth and overall Harlow were seventh.

In the ladies race, Sharon Wright was fourth out of 194 finishers in a PB of 41:30sec.

She was followed by: Paula Reynolds 18th in 44:51; Carinne Jay 47th in 48:03.

Rain's a pain for cricketers

RAIN washed out all Harlow Cricket Club games on Saturday with all teams in strong positions.

The first XI, at home against Orsett, had scored 217-3 off 42 overs (Rehman Ahmed 51; Ahmed Khawaja 75) before the match was halted.

The second XI, playing at Hutton, bowled them all out for 150 with wicketkeeper John Perry taking five catches, four off the bowling of Liam Coldwell who took 4-30.

The game was abandoned before Harlow could face a ball.

The third XI reached 95-3 against Woodford Wells III before the game was called off, while the fourth XI, playing at home to Orsett had scored 201-4 (Mashood Iqbal 84; Iihan Mustafa 63), before they also fell victim to the weather.

Medals galore for Harlow gymnasts

Club mixes it with the best teams in the country

THERE were medals galore for Harlow Gymnastics Club at the East Region recreational boys' competition in Ipswich.

The Harlow gymnasts were competing against representatives from some of the top men's artistic gymnastics clubs in the UK, such as Huntingdon and South Essex, who have produced Olympic and international medallists Louis Smith, Brinn Bevan and Max Whitlock.

There was a clean sweep in the U12s event with Harlow gymnasts placing in all three top overall positions.

Daniel Capodici, 11, was first overall after winning three gold medals for rings, vault and high-bar, as well as taking sixth position on floor.

Harry Ferguson, 12, placed second overall, picking up a silver medal on parallel bars and fifth on both rings and vault.

Churchgate Primary pupil Mateo Reynald-Abad, 11, was third overall, receiving the bronze medal on parallel bar, placed fifth on floor and sixth on high bar.

Stanley Broughton, 11, finished 16th overall after taking sixth on parallel bar, while Jack Millward, 12, was fourth on floor and finished in 19th place overall.

Further success came Harlow's way in the U16 event, with Kieran McMahon, 15, winning the gold medal on rings, as well as placing fifth on parallel bar and sixth on vault to finish fifth overall.

Matthew Brough (14) came eighth overall after placing sixth on both rings and high bar, while Mitchell March (13) was 12th overall and sixth on parallel bar.

Little Parndon Primary School pupil Hrissian Gunov, ten, collected bronze medals on both rings and parallel bar, as well as placing fourth on rings.

These results saw him finish in seventh overall in the U10 age group event.

Narrowly

Nine-year-old Elliot Buckold was placed sixth on vault, finishing in 15th position overall.

His team-mate Jak Bogue, nine, was narrowly behind in 16th overall after taking sixth place on rings.

Max Riddle (8) placed 18th overall in the same competition.

Harlow Gymnastics Club head boys' coach and co-owner, Peter James, said: "From a coach's view, it's brilliant that our boys are able to compete against gymnasts from the biggest men's artistic gymnastics clubs in the country and are bringing home some medals.

"A massive congratulations to the gymnasts and I'm very proud of all of them."
